An introduction to the Birth Chart

Have you read one description after another of your ‘sign’ and felt it was only partially accurate? That’s because there are deeper secrets in the Birth Chart.

The Birth, or Natal Chart, is a detailed map of the location of planets at the moment of your birth. Astrologers look at the Birth Chart the way an architect will look at the blueprint of a house.

Be examining the Birth Chart, you can understand many dimensions of your personality, motivations and Karmic lessons. The Sun Sign is a helpful clue to discovering personality traits, yet it is just the tip of the iceberg. Exploring the Birth Chart, you’ll discover potential in personal life, love, career, spirituality and health, talents, Karmic patterns and challenges that are pivotal for you.

The Birth Chart shows the placement of each planet and their distance from each other, known as ‘aspects’. Aspects indicate ease or friction you may experience in expressing the energy of specific planets. The location of planets in the chart and the signs in which they are found reveal deeper secrets about how you channel attributes of the planets. You can also gain deeper insight by seeing which of the twelve ‘houses’ each planet and sign are in.

For example, if you are born with Sun in Aries in your tenth house, your personality and talents (Sun) are influenced by Aries focused in the tenth house (career and public image). This energy can lead to careers in leadership. You may also be drawn to careers that show your power such as athletics or security.

If your Moon is in Pisces, your emotional nature is likely to be highly sensitive. You may be drawn to mysticism and spirituality. Mercury denotes how you think and communicate while Venus indicates how you attract people and resources.

The chart also includes analysis of key points such as the Ascendant which reveals much about your identity, appearance and outward expression as well as the Descendant which shows how you attract others and what you look for in a partner.
Introduction to the dominant planet

Each planet’s placement describes how you may handle life lessons. Greater emphasis is given to planets that have stronger placement in your chart, those reinforced by sign, house and aspects that elevate its significance.

A planet’s energy can be reinforced so to speak, when it is amplified by placement in sign, house and aspect to other planets.

Your Dominant Planet is like the astrological fingerprint or signature of your Birth Chart. It describes your primary personality traits. The Dominant Planet is like a filter through which you see the world or harness the energies of the other planets.

The Dominant Planet may be dramatically different from the planet associated with your Sun Sign, called the "ruler planet". For example, if your Sun Sign is Leo but you’ve never identified much with descriptions of this sign, knowing that your Dominant planet is actually Saturn and not the Sun explains this.

Saturn, unlike the Sun/Leo, is more traditional, cautious and conservative. Understanding the interaction between these components in your chart gives a different perspective.
Your dominant planet is Pluto

The dominant planet defines your personality more accurately than your sign and is calculated by taking into account every element of your astrological chart.

Pluto as the dominant planet

If Pluto is the dominant planet in your natal chart, then you will be said to be a Plutonian. Pluto is associated with power, sexual magnetism and a feeling of being unique.

These characteristics can be positive or negative, depending on the other aspects of an individual person's natal chart, and the course of their life as a whole.

This power can be sexual power (i.e. a wonderful sexual magnetism that can be a positive force in romantic life), financial power (many Plutonians are very rich, and it is not for nothing that the word 'plutocrat' means someone who uses their wealth to rule), or the ability to lead and govern.

Very often in astrology, the positive and negative characteristics of a given planet's influence are like the front and back of a coin. So, the positive characteristics of a dominant Pluto can also be turned into negative ones if the individual is not aware.
The feeling of being unique, for example, that many Plutonians have, can turn into a sense that that individual is more important than others, and that they are above the law and can do whatever they want regardless of the needs and feelings of other people.

Plutonians can all too often use their power for selfish or destructive ends. They can become jealous if they feel that they are not being given the attention that they feel they deserve. It is for this reason that Pluto is associated with dictators, but also with possessive lovers.

The meaning of a dominant Pluto is closely tied to Pluto's more general meaning in astrology. Pluto is a planet associated with transformations. These can be positive renewals and rebirths or negative, destructive transformations.

Pluto governs the deep instincts. It drives everything that is below the surface in our lives. As such, Pluto can often be the planet of hidden power.

The ruler of Scorpio, Pluto has many of the characteristics of the Scorpion. Possessiveness, strength, power, the love of being an authority figure and a hatred of being undermined are all Plutonian characteristics and characteristics of a Scorpio in general.

Pluto is associated with strength and passion that can be used for violence - or for good.
What does my dominant planet reveal about appearance, style and boundaries?

The Pluto dominant person is intense and may have deep, penetrating eyes and a serious demeanor. They have a strong magnetic sexual charm that draws others to them. At the same time they can be overbearing and intimidating because of their knack for probing into the inner worlds of others.

Plutonians have striking features and may have an edge to their appearance. They carry natural power and give off a strong, seductive but no-nonsense aura.

In fashion they aren’t afraid to push boundaries and express their sexuality through dress and style. They are all about power and aren’t afraid to flaunt status. If they are hoping to achieve status, their style may reflect a ‘fake it ‘til you make it’ attitude.

Pluto dominant people may go to extremes to express their creative energy by trying on a variety of styles. They are also likely to go through phases as their energy is associated with personal reinvention and rebirth. Look through their old photos and you may find remnants of a Goth phase at some point in time.

They are closely connected to the otherworlds and the cycles of death and transformation and so may be drawn to dark colors, black or red in particular.

Fashions associated with power or associated with powerful groups, from motorcycle gangs, to militant groups to highly formal business attire will appeal to them. Fashion associated with both outlaws and high status are appealing to them.

They don’t hide their style to fit in with social norms or expectations, yet they know how to be discreet and stay off the radar when they need to. They understand intuitively that in some settings it is best to blend in with the background and can keep from drawing attention to themselves when they want to.

Pluto dominant people have a keen understanding of how others think and can size up others quickly. This information is then used to their advantage, so they may dress to put others at ease if that is their agenda, or to intimidate if they feel they need to.

In relationships Plutonian people want to get under everyone’s skin, not as an irritant but to reveal secrets and fully assess the deeper layers of those around them.

They may be direct, assertive and comfortable with intimacy as a means of revealing information. For them, body language, physical contact and even sexuality are as much a matter of research as a matter of physical pleasure.

They do also want to form deep emotional bonds with those in whom they have taken a romantic interest. For everyone else however, they are good at establish boundaries and communicating these boundaries in direct, powerful ways which leave no room for confusion or misinterpretation.

They can come across to others as guarded at first. This is because they are always on the lookout for allies and adversaries, and always assessing their surroundings. When they have taken an interest in someone, they focus all of their energy on that individual and will call, text or seek out frequent communication.

In mature expressions, they are able to strategize their contact to not be too overbearing, yet in early years or without self awareness they may be more impulsive and not realize how intense their pursuit feels to their love interest.
What does my dominant planet tell about my love and relationships attitude?

The Pluto dominant person, or Plutonian, embodies the energy of the archetypal God of the Underworld. This title may sound sinister, and for good reason. The Pluto dominant person is a force to be reckoned with, they represent raw power in its most intense form.

As a result, they have an uncanny sense of depth and are able to pierce through layers of illusion to reveal hidden truths. In relationships, Pluto dominant people radiate a powerfully attractive energy which draws people’s interest. They are intriguing and carry an air of mystery.

Others are drawn in to their personal power. Although associated with strength and truth, Pluto dominant people can become enamored with the elements of control in relationships, especially if they have not yet achieved some level of evolution and self awareness.

In their less evolved state, Plutonians may easily dominate others. They become so fixated on revealing the truth, as they are likely to fixate on most things, so as to miss the importance to balance emotional sensitivity and compassion with their desire to strip away illusions.

With the development of further social graces and self confidence, they do not need to exude power over others or look to relationships as a source of control. Instead they become self possessed, yet have an unmistakeably life changing effect on those around them.

Plutonians can be a powerful presence in a crowd. Without saying much at all, they can charm and disarm those around them while being careful to reveal little about themselves. When unenlightened, they have the potential to be skilled manipulators for this reason.

When they are more self aware, they do not need to go to these extremes. They can harness their own sense of power and facilitate transformation and rebirth for those around them without carelessly tearing down the defenses of others. Pluto dominant people like to explore the very edges of every boundary. As a result they may push just to see how far they can go.

In relationships they can be intense, obsessive and sometimes intimidating to others. It is best to not try to beat a Plutonian person in a battle of wills because you are likely to lose. Unless you are also a Pluto dominant person in which case you could end up creating a cold war within the relationship, neither will back down.

Pluto dominant people don’t necessarily care what they stand to lose. They understand loss as a passageway to transcendence. As a result they will impose their will or dig their heels in and become obstinate, not bending to any authority other than their own.

Don’t give a Pluto dominant person an ultimatum unless you are completely willing to follow through. Don’t test them, because they will go to any lengths to follow their mission whether it requires sacrificing the ones they love or not.

In sexual relationships, Plutonians can be intense, highly seductive and can both become obsessed with and the objects of obsession for, their loved ones. There is an intoxicating effect a Pluto dominant person has on those around them.

Their relationships can be vehicles for transcendence and transformation, or self destructive and sabotaging, depending on how balanced they are and how aware they are of their subconscious drives and patterns.

They will, no doubt, become more aware of the subconscious drives and desires of those around them, yet may neglect their own wounds and insecurities, which will surface to lead them into transformation if they allow themselves to be receptive to this process.
Introduction to the Sun-Venus combination

The Sun-Venus combination helps shed light on your unique personality and individual creative talents as they contribute to your relationships and attraction energy.

The Sun represents the ego and personality as well as your sense of identity and personal strengths. Venus shows the type of personality you are attracted to and how you manage relationships and romance.

For instance someone with Sun in Scorpio may have a much different attraction and relationship style if they have Venus in Virgo as opposed to Venus in Sagittarius. Sun in Scorpio with Venus in Virgo is an intense person who can be analytical and intellectual but pragmatic in relationships.

With Venus in Sagittarius, however, the Sun in Scorpio person expresses their attraction energy through progressive relationships where they remain relatively independent.

By learning the Sun-Venus combination for yourself or others, you can understand how their personality and energy in relationships manifest.
What's my dating style, what attracts and repels me according to my Sun/Venus combination?

Your Sun is in Scorpio and your Venus in Libra

You are passionate, romantic and seductive. You love to meet new people and are perceived as sensual, charming and seductive. You aren’t afraid to move quickly in a relationship and may advance to sexual encounters early in the dating process.

Your ideal venue for a date is a place that makes you feel powerful and classy. An upscale restaurant or club, for example. You seek pleasure and will spare no expense to have a good time. You enjoy parties and thrive off of the attention of others. You want to be seen in trendy settings with a beautiful person. If there is something controversial or mysterious about your date and people gossip, all the better.

You enjoy supporting the arts and humanitarian causes and are drawn to locations that have a socially conscious mission. You are also drawn to the edgy and exciting. You will want to prove to your date that you are fun to be around and complex. You enjoy people who are deep thinkers and feelers and want to relay your complex nature through the assortment of interests you share with your date.

You can be romantic one moment and domineering the next. You will vacillate between these energies when it suits you. Strategy comes naturally to you and a date is a mystery to figure out. You enjoy learning what makes your love interest tick and getting to the bottom of their motivations and desires.

You won’t waste your time with people who aren’t interesting or who are superficial or narrow minded. You will also be turned off by people who are too emotionally needy or those who try to one-up you.

A date who is not as image conscious as you are can lead you to lose interest. You like beauty and can be judgmental of the appearance of others.
Introduction to the Sun-Moon combination

Analyzing the entire birth chart is worthwhile but can be quite involved. When you are looking for an overview of personality, identity and strengths as well as a glimpse of the inner, intuitive and emotional world for yourself or someone else, the Sun-Moon combination will give you a comprehensive assessment.

The Sun sign deals with personality, ego and personal strengths. The Moon shows the inner workings, the emotional, intuitive and nurturing side of someone’s personality.

Looking at this combination will help you gain insight into how one’s outward personality and inner life work together or differ. You can also discover a lot about the interaction between the masculine and feminine energy in an individual.

For example, if the Sun is in Capricorn and Moon is in Gemini, it’s likely you will have a hard working, traditional and conservative personality but also a habit of intellectualizing your emotions.

With Moon in Aries, however, your patient, practical personality may be fueled by a desire for leadership or emotions may be expressed impulsively.
How do your personality and your emotional nature join according to your Sun and Moon combination?

Sun in Scorpio and Moon in Leo
Sun in Scorpio gives you an intense personality and an obsession with power and control. Your desire to take the lead and show your unique strengths is enhanced further by Moon in Leo. You are dramatic and can also be dark, brooding and mysterious.

On the outside you love to play it cool and keep your secrets concealed. On the inside, though, you just can’t contain yourself and your passions can lead you to act on impulse. You can be quick to anger but also extremely nurturing and generous. You show your enthusiasm and passion by focusing on your interests and working with unshakeable determination.

You are drawn to mysteries and are emotionally drawn to status. You are attracted to people who appear to possess power or influence and you seek status through your relationships. You love the spotlight and like to be seen as an expert and authority though you don’t use your platform typically to show vulnerability and self-disclosure.

If you have done significant work on yourself you will be able to use your own healing to shed light on important issues. An example of this would be writing a memoir about your struggles to overcome addictions or other personally transformative experiences.

Until you have worked through insecurities that prevent you from showing your authentic self, however, you may keep your deeper emotions and experiences guarded, projecting an image of being in control.

You may play it cool on the surface but deep inside you are attracted to the dramatic and theatrical. You know how to get your message across.

You also have a way of making your unhappiness known and when you are upset with someone you will pull out all the stops to show them that they have crossed a line. Not only will it be clear to anyone you feel has wronged you, but also to the public in general.
Introduction to the elements

Each astrological sign is associated with one of the four natural elements. In Western Astrology, the natural world is seen as being comprised of some combination of these four elements. Each element has distinct traits and is associated with specific ‘flavoring’ to that energy.

Aries, Leo and Sagittarius are considered Fire signs while Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn are Earth signs. By understanding the prevalence or absence of certain elements in your chart, you can come to understand how your personality is shaped by the nature of these elements.

For example if you have a prevalence of Air element in your chart, your leaning is toward the intellectual and rational. Fire creates greater confidence, passion and sometimes impulsivity.

Water signs and a prevalence of Water energy creates deeper emotional connection and desire for security and healing. Earth is associated with stability, security, abundance also health and finances.
Your 4 elements. How do intellect, emotions, action and practicality influence your personality?

Dominant Earth, Fire, Air, Water

Earth is your dominant element and as a result you are practical, patient and business oriented. You think like a CEO and may treat even family or relationships like business partnerships and collaborations. You are down to earth and value consistency and reliability. You don’t trust what you can’t perceive with your senses and as a result you operate on instinct rather than emphasizing research or academics.

Career is your primary focus and you devote yourself to your work in order to create stability and a legacy. You are a creature of habit and value repetition. You may become mistrusting of people who are unpredictable or who don’t walk their talk.

You look for consistency as a measure of stability in your relationships and may frequently find yourself disappointed when others don’t live up to your standards. When you are stressed you may try to control situations by becoming obsessive and compulsive.

Your obsessive and passionate nature are reinforced by your secondary element, the Fire element. You prefer to keep a low profile but you have an intense streak and your temper can easily flare up. You can become obsessive, dominating and insistent on having your own way.
On the other hand, fire gives you courage, confidence and assertiveness. You can become driven and focused because of the energy of Fire and when you have your mind set on a goal you will overcome any challenge in order to pursue your agenda.

While you can be focused and determined, fire can help you adapt to changes but you can be unyielding and not open to change.

The Air element can add potential for flexibility allowing you to change your views and adapt to different perspectives however the gifts of the air element are not dominant in your personality but accessible when you need them. You trust your instincts and senses first and foremost thanks to your dominant Earth element but when your sensory information leads to a road block you turn to academics, logic and the intellectual.

Your primary purpose in learning is to gain applicable knowledge that can increase your skills in business or practical matters.

You can be social and outgoing but your primary objective is to further your career and find financial stability. You don’t like to chit chat aimlessly but can be an excellent networker.

The element of Water, which grants empathy, emotional connection and places value on relationships, is your least prevalent element. You have concern for others and emotional sensitivity but you don’t function primarily from the standpoint of emotion.

You care about relationships and family but may focus on work and career as a means of providing stability for those you love. You aren’t transparent about your emotions and may even be mystified by them yourself.

Introduction to the Sun, Ascendant and Sun in the house combination

Discovering insight about personality, strengths requires looking at more than the Sun sign. The Sun represents individual identity, other factors in the Birth Chart can reveal complex dimensions of your personality.

The Sun-Ascendant and Sun in the House combination report can help you gain a more complete idea of your personal strengths and path as an individual.

The placement of the Sun in sign and house gives more details about how the Sun’s energy is expressed in your personality. The Ascendant is like a second Sun sign that can further distinguish your personal strengths. The Ascendant is also associated with appearance and outward expression.

If your Sun is in Sagittarius in your second house and Scorpio is your Ascendant, you are optimistic and may be inclined toward opulence, associating money with power. At the same time, the second house emphasizes stability and value while Sagittarius is a philanthropist so though you give a first impression (Scorpio Ascendant) as being intense, scrutinizing and mysterious, you’re actually quite benevolent.
What does my unique Sun, Ascendant and Sun's house combination tell about my personality?

Sun in Scorpio gives you intense energy to focus on researching your numerous interests so you can uncover deeper truths and reveal hidden knowledge. Your desire to seek out wisdom and truth is amplified further by Sagittarius Ascendant.

Anything you touch is likely to turn to gold because of the dose of good fortune that accompanies Sagittarius Rising. You are an inspiration to others and easily attract friends. Though you are generous and outgoing, you also love your independence and freedom.

You can keep others at a distance by remaining intellectional, rational and cool, processing the world around you in a deep and analytical way. Your intuition is strong though when you are not balanced you may confuse your perceptions and intuition for insecurities which surface as jealousies and power struggles.

Sun in Scorpio in your eleventh house places emphasis on being a catalyst for social change and progress. You are a rebel and aren’t afraid to stand apart from the crowd. At the same time you thrive on group interaction and prefer to be slightly ahead of your peers, but working in conjunction with groups and organizations to be a catalyst for change.

You are attracted to the taboo and unorthodox. You are also attracted to the occult and arcane knowledge. Your intensity can cause you to become zealous at times. Some of your views can be unusual and shocking yet you are also persuasive and can easily convince people to see things your way.

Introduction to the aspects

The Birth Chart is a map of the placements of each planet based at the time of your birth. The location of the planet in the sky gives us the ‘sign’ of that planet’s placement. Also of great importance are the distances between each planet, called aspects.

The distance is based on how many degrees each planet is from the other. Conjunctions are planets that are close to each other. Their energies are strengthened.

At sixty degrees of separation or sextile, the planets open up positive potential for each other. At ninety degrees, or square, the planets bring out frustration that can be motivating.

At 120 degrees or trine, the planets have a lucky impact, an easy flow of energy. At 150 or quincunx, there is frustration because of unappreciated strength you may be hiding from.

At 180 degrees or opposition, the planets are in a face off in which obstacles must be dealt with for healing, integration and progress to take place.
Your significative aspects

How do I handle control and power?

You have an intense personality and life lessons regarding power, authority and control will be essential to shaping your path.

Focused to the point of obsessiveness, you easily ruminate over situations, grinding down any situation to the bare bones trying to perfect every detail. You are not interested in half measures and may have significant lessons throughout life as you struggle to learn the art of compromise and flexibility.

Left to your own devices, you are ambition driven and can have a stubborn streak. You have difficulty accepting any authority higher than your own ideas and principles and while you can be disciplined and hard working, you can also unintentionally damage relationships by refusing to yield any control to others.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Pluto and Ascendant.

How do I use my powerful energy with people?

You may burn bridges unintentionally if you are not careful. Your intensity can overwhelm others. You are authentic and straightforward and your candid nature can be hard for others to take. You don’t mean to harm others yet you also don’t sugar coat things.

Challenges and conflicts can help you to learn how to be more subtle in your approach to others.

You could be a leader because you love to take initiative and can endure hardships because you persevere and are highly motivated.

In order to succeed however you will need to work on your communication skills and become more empathic toward others.

It is difficult for you to take direction from others and you tend to work alone and resist dealing with any other higher authority. Some times this works against your goals however as you miss opportunities to learn from others.

This answer is related to a square, semi-square or sesqui-quadrature between your Mars and Ascendant.
Importance of this answer:

********
Am I self-disciplined?

You are highly self disciplined and have strong organizational skills. You always want things to work in practical, methodical ways. You are uncomfortable with spontaneity and are seldom impulsive.

You are also naturally cautious and will not make any decision unless you have researched it thoroughly.

The thought of missing out on something because you took too long to act does not scare you. You know from life experiences that another opportunity is always going to present itself if you just wait long enough.

This answer is related to a trine between your Saturn and Ascendant.

Importance of this answer:

Are my ego and my intellect aligned?

You have a high degree of mental power, which also transforms into strong communication skills and logic.

You are witty, ingenious and good with both written and spoken words.

On the negative side, this power sometimes overwhelms you and the mental activity turns into unending mental chatter.

When your mind is always busy, your listening capabilities will suffer. You will listen more to your inner chatter than to others around you. However, if the other person doesn't pay attention to you, you can become upset.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Sun and Mercury.

Importance of this answer:

How do I express my originality?

You are inspired by those around you and may take a hint or idea to some extreme level by focusing your wit and intelligence in conjunction with your creativity and futuristic vision.

You have humanitarian instincts and want to be a positive catalyst for change to promote a better society. You may become a staunch activist on a number of issues and may speak or act in ways that shock other people. Your appearance is likely to be unique as well as you prefer to stand out from the crowd.

You have a brilliant mind and others look to you for creative inventive ideas.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your Uranus and Ascendant.

Importance of this answer:

How do I show my intellect and determination through my outward personality or body language?

You can appear like a guardian angel, showing up just when you are needed most. Your body language and your style of expressing yourself shows your intellect and abilities to see the bigger patterns.

You are assertive but don’t need to be overbearing. You can be direct and confident in your vision. You show your vision and passion yet you also walk your talk. This means you don’t need to be overbearing or domineering in order to get your message across.

You know how to leverage your tone, body language and appearance to fully represent your message and strategy. You know how to dress for success and you know how to make a powerful first impression.

Others learn quickly not to cross you, though you would rather use your clout to influence people in positive ways than to intimidate others.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Pallas and Ascendant.

What is my potential for success in career and public life?

You are adept at making lemonade when life gives you lemons and as a result you will never struggle to achieve success or accumulate wealth. You are also never at a loss of opportunities. Your career path may unfold thanks to influential people helping to point you in the right direction or vouching for your skills.

You are likely to easily climb the ladder and advance your ambition yet you are also likely to be a fair, judicious leader. You have great potential to exert influence over large groups of people and are likely to act with benevolence when given the authority to act on behalf of others.

You are likely to accumulate wealth and reach status at various times during your life. You may take risks to achieve your dreams though they will typically pay off in the long run.

This answer is related to a trine between your Jupiter and Midheaven.

Importance of this answer:

How are my relationships impacted by major life turning points?

Your relationships are a source of strength and consistency during major life turning points.

Even cataclysmic events can help me to overall improve your relationships and connections to others. You can easily connect with others on a deeper level and when you have to go through dramatic life changes and crises outside of your control, you can easily find the support you need to maintain security.

You may even have breakthroughs that help your relationships transform and advance even in the midst of challenges and crises. You may have illusions regarding love and romance shattered by cataclysmic events and major turning points.

Yet even when this happens you can find it easy to anchor yourself in your role in relationships. You may try to protect others or overestimate the potential for love to conquer all.

Even if it isn’t enough to mitigate the impact of the major turning point, you will nonetheless be able to thrive in spite of these major changes.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Venus and Pholus.

Importance of this answer:

How do my relationships help me fulfill my purpose?

Throughout your life, you will find the needed teachers appearing to help uplift you and bring you closer to your destiny. This is because you radiate strong attraction energy which connects you to Karmic relationships with others.

Whether romantic in nature or not, you easily make connections with others who help you advance toward your mission. Since relationships are the vehicle for Karmic lessons and help steer you on your path to fulfilling your purpose, you are likely to attract significant others in romantic relationships who help reveal your destiny.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Venus and True Lunar Node.

Importance of this answer:

How do I nurture my spiritual calling?

You may find it easy to draw on your nurturing and compassionate nature to fuel your spiritual mission.

Even when you have to make personal sacrifices in order to fulfill your quest, you’ll easily be able to remain practical and grounded. You understand the importance of nurturing your foundation so that you can better serve as a compassionate caretaker for others.

When you tend to your physical needs, or act as a compassionate caretaker for others, you can more easily feel connected to your source of spiritual inspiration as well.

Your spiritual calling may require you to sacrifice some aspects of your comfort and you may find greater spiritual connection through fasting or asceticism, foregoing your own luxuries and comforts to dedicate yourself to a higher calling.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Ceres and Vesta.

Importance of this answer:

How do I deal with the expansion of my goals?

Your are generous, fun loving and lackadaisical. You can also be confident and idealistic.

Yet many times you don't make the most of those qualities because you seek comfort and pleasures, avoiding tasks that are too demanding. It's not laziness though, it is more about being indulgent in seeking pleasures.

Your communicative qualities are well developed and you can easily be a project leader, conveying love for the job and inspiring people to be creative. You bring integrity and ethics into your tasks.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your Sun and Jupiter.

Importance of this answer:

How do I follow my destiny during times of cataclysmic changes?

Your destiny and purpose are intertwined with changes that you are compelled to make in the midst of cataclysmic crises.

Seemingly small or inconsequential decisions or accidents have much larger ramifications for you and help to steer you toward the path of fulfilling your destiny. You may be compelled to step up to the plate as a leader or healer, finding personal growth and advancement in the midst of crises.

Milestones and major life turning points can reveal deeper truths about your destiny and who you truly are. When you open up to your higher potential, you’ll be better able to fulfill your mission.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your True Lunar Node and Pholus.

Importance of this answer:

How does my intuition influence my nurturing style?

Your intuitive, compassionate and emotional nature makes it easy for you to nurture others.

You are naturally drawn to people who need a maternal, nurturing figure in their lives regardless of age or gender. You know how to make others feel like family and can easily create a sense of homecoming for your loved ones.

You are nurtured by your deeper instincts and by your sense of home and family. When you need to feel soothed and comforted, you may seek out strong women in your life.

You may also seek your home or reminders of home and family to soothe your own emotions.

This answer is related to a trine between your Moon and Ceres.

Importance of this answer:

Is my intellect related to my career?

Your career and professional life are likely to involve learning and/or teaching.

You have clear ideas about your career and you plan your life carefully.

From an early age you wanted to develop skills useful for your professional life.

Discipline, steadfastness and perseverance are your traits when comes to mental and intellectual tasks. You want to connect the intellect with something practical and factual, not only theoretical.

You like to learn from people in high positions and from older people.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your Mercury and Midheaven.

Importance of this answer:

How do I work with the energies of intimacy, decisiveness and romantic passion?

Your decisions are mostly a direct and unfiltered consequence of your intense feelings.

Sometimes your emotions can get out of control and you might react with strong outbreaks, which can become fearsome to people around you.

This happens especially when you feel threats to your sense of security, so it's basically a self-protection measure which goes into overdrive.

You need to discriminate between when you are actually hurt and when you are overly sensitive to any form of criticism.

You need to establish clear borders between your intimate circle of friends and family and the external world, which you consider as being generally hostile.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Moon and Mars.

Importance of this answer:

Am I seen as a loving and gentle person?

Love and affection are noticeable qualities of your personality.

Being gentle and kind can make you susceptible to some people who would take advantage of your tender nature.

You easily attract others because of your gentle and loving nature. You are also perceived as physically attractive. You are charming and may use your flirtatious or compassionate nature to make important connections which will help you to succeed.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your Venus and Ascendant.

Importance of this answer:

How do I use my keen mind and powers of persuasion to succeed in my goals?

You can be intense and though you know how to be diplomatic, you aren’t afraid to make your authoritative nature known to others.

You have an obsessive mind and once a strategy comes to you, you’ll narrow your focus and put all your power into succeeding. You can be flexible but only after you’ve exhausted all your influence and intellectual skills trying to have things your way.

Rather than compromising, you would prefer to convince others that your way is right. You expect others to naturally fall in line with your thinking and often they do. You can be a passionate speaker and make a compelling argument to others.

Your style of planning and persuasive communication can inspire others to follow you. You may develop a reputation as being a powerful mentor who helps others embrace deeper transformation. You can also find ways to get right to the heart of the matter and express urgency and passion so that others don’t second guess your ideas.

You don’t have to be loud to show you are an authority on a particular subject matter. In fact you can command attention even by lowering your voice or saying few words.

This answer is related to a conjunction between your Pluto and Pallas.

Importance of this answer:
How do I communicate my intense need for freedom?

Your message is often under or overstated and your deep seated emotions and wild nature make it hard for you to hit your mark when you try to express your ideas.

When you learn to listen to your intuition and validate your deep seated instincts, though, you can gain greater motivation to get your message out. The key for you is to not get distracted by the deep desire to be recognized as ‘right’ as opposed to being seen as ‘wrong.’

You may be misunderstood at times but will be able to fine tune your message without suppressing your beliefs.

You may need to work harder than others to feel your voice is being heard and not trampled on.

This answer is related to a square, semi-square or sesqui-square between your Mercury and Lilith.

Importance of this answer:

How creative or rebellious am I when it comes to expressing my erotic desires?

You may find it easy to express your erotic and sensual side.

You have no problem flaunting your sexuality and see sex as intertwined with power in general. You can be intense and dramatic and your erotic fantasies can involve expressing your creative energy and reclaiming your power.

You may find sexuality to be a source of dramatic power, self-expression and authority over your own body and fantasies. You may be confident in your sexual attraction energy and this can help you maintain your independence even in relationships.

This answer is related to a trine between your Lilith and Eros.

Importance of this answer:

How do I show love and admiration in a committed relationship?

You may be torn between the desire for love and romance and the desire for serious commitment.

Your intentions may be to settle down and make a relationship work and yet your love of flirting and being admired can lead to problems in your commitments if you stray from your partner.

You may also be so in love with the idea of being in love that you attract partners who are toxic, unavailable or who simply aren’t looking for the same things you are looking for. You may have to work hard to see through the illusions in romance.

You want to give everyone the benefit of the doubt but you aren’t always as protective of your feelings and vulnerability as you should be.

You may learn through difficult conflicts and harsh lessons who is really worth your commitment and devotion and who is not.

This answer is related to an opposition between your Venus and Juno.

Importance of this answer:

How are my emotions connected to my external personality?

You are quite emotional. Since your moods change quickly, it creates issues with relationships and with sticking on the decisions you made.

You need to feel needed all the time. This makes you insecure in relationships. You think you aren't doing enough and you resort to become submissive.

You might become too emotional in dealing with people and tend to complain about small things.

This answer is related to a square, semi-square or sesqui-quadrature between your Moon and Ascendant.

Importance of this answer:

How do I deal with power, boundaries and transformation?

You are intense and your confidence attracts others to you. You have a magnetic energy that draws others in.

Your appeal may also lie in your maturity as you appear and act older than you are and may come to be more physically and sexually attractive to others later in life. You are ambitious and hard working and when you have a plan and idea in mind nobody can stop you.

Even the most significantly life altering crisis only serves to make you wiser and more successful in the long run. You embrace transformation and become more determined to succeed no matter how challenging things become.

You will also use your own experiences with transformation as a springboard to help facilitate healing and insight for others.

This answer is related to a trine between your Saturn and Pluto.

Importance of this answer:

Am I aware of my higher purpose in this lifetime?

Numerous Karmic connections to others throughout your lifetime will help you awaken to your higher calling. You may not have all the details at once yet you will likely trust the process enough to follow the guidance you are given.

You are likely to encounter synchronistic teachers and gurus who emerge to help you find your purpose and calling. You will most likely be receptive to their teachings.

Although you may have to break free from your comfort zone in order to pursue your mission you will find the strength and support to do this without drama and turmoil.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your True Lunar Node and Ascendant.

Importance of this answer:

Do I express my power in a bold and courageous way?

It is not easy for you to manage your intense power. You feel extremely uncomfortable not being in control and this causes power struggles in your professional and personal life.

You are likely to get into conflicts that could easily have been avoided when people don’t follow your expectations exactly the way you want them to. If you can try to maintain some flexibility and openness to sharing power, you can potentially channel your power and confidence to succeed.

You can emerge as a leader and help others undergo their own powerful transformations as a healer if you are able to be more flexible with your expectations.

This answer is related to a square, semi-square or sesqui-quadrate between your Mars and Pluto.

Importance of this answer:

Am I a knowledge seeker?

You are witty and creative and your mind can expand easily to encompass numerous teachings and abstract topics.

You are inclined toward philosophy, humanities and cultural studies and may easily learn to speak different languages. You are also able to communicate with confidence and diplomacy and can be an excellent mediator or inspirational speaker. Others are drawn to your enthusiasm and you are a natural leader.

This answer is related to a sextile or semi-sextile between your Mercury and Jupiter.

Importance of this answer:

How do I nurture my sacred calling?

You have an easy time showing your nurturing side, especially in service to others.

It is part of your deeply felt mission to help others feel at home and to create security for those around you. This is part of your spiritual mission. Your service to others may come at the cost of your own family.

Your time with family or ability to feel secure and relaxed in your own home may also be traded for the chance to fulfill your sacred duty to others.

Though you’ll never complain. In fact, you feel most in the zone when you are serving in a nurturing and caretaking capacity. You feel connected to your spiritual mission when you’re helping others to feel at home.

This answer is related to a trine between your Moon and Vesta.

Importance of this answer:

How do I channel my ambition and energy to fight for what I believe in?

You are determined, focused and passionate.

At the same time, your ambition and desire to act with immediate urgency can lead you to undermine your best potential. You can be a great advocate for others or activist for change but first you have to balance your determination with your personal ambition.

If ego gets in the way of your mission, you will not be as effective. Instead, channel the passion that comes from being personally affected by issues that are important for you but use this energy to try to win your crusade. Don’t get lost in power struggles.

This answer is related to a square, semi-square or sesqui-quadrate between your Mars and Pallas.

Importance of this answer:

How do I create a stable foundation during times of change?

You tolerate friction and stress up to a point at which you feel compelled to completely wipe the slate clean and start over.

Once you are ready for change, you initiate large scale sweeping changes in your life with efficiency and tend to look to the future and not give a second thought to what you have left behind.

You typically keep a good balance between where you have come from and where you desire to go in the future. You are a progressive thinker and hard worker.

Social progress and advancement is part of your core motivation and you are willing to sacrifice your personal comfort, needs and status in order to advance groups, teams or society at large.

How does my intuition help shape my career?

Your dreamy, creative nature as well as your intuition help you establish yourself as an artist or creative entrepreneur. You may have great success as a result of seemingly lucky breaks.

You are true to your artistic vision and without putting forth excessive effort you manage to find ways to bring forth your talents and gifts. You may appear to have it easier than others yet you are intuitively guided and open to opportunities that others may overlook.

You also have a knack for going with the flow rather than trying to micromanage everything. For this reason you have mastered the art of getting maximum benefit from exerting minimal effort. You don’t struggle to swim upstream but let opportunities come to you.

How do I find my destiny through my committed partnership?

The lessons you stand to learn through a commitment to a spouse or partner can easily lead you to advance personally in some important way.

Yet you may be reluctant to surrender to your destiny. When this happens you may rebel against or resist partners who could be valuable teachers or guides along your path. You may let jealousies or petty insecurities stand in the way of your commitment to your loved ones.

When you learn to create harmony and balance you will be able to harness your role in a partnership or committed relationship as the key to personal advancement and growth.

You may need to set aside your ego’s desires for comfort in order to fully live up to your potential. You may also have to learn to balance between the commitments in your partnership and your commitment to your own advancement and growth.

Introduction to the planets in the signs

You may have studied your ‘sign’ in reference to your Sun sign but to fully understand your complex personality and life path it’s important to recognize the importance of each of the signs.

The planets closer to the Earth are considered personal planets, namely the Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Mars. These planets have a strong impact on shaping individual identity and personality based on the sign (and house) they are placed in during your birth time or based on their regular transits through the signs and houses.

A Sun in Gemini may be balanced by Moon in Capricorn for example, so that you are intellectual and witty but emotionally grounded and practical. Mars in Aquarius may give you a tendency toward erratic energy and motivation to lead groups of people. Venus in Taurus may give you a firm sense of value and beauty and make you a natural romantic.

The distant planets have more of a social or generational impact in the birth chart but a stronger impact when transiting.
Your planets in signs

Introduction to the Sun

When someone asks ‘what’s your sign?’ they typically aren’t expecting a complete Natal Chart interpretation in response. Rather they are asking about your Sun Sign.

Though astrology has been around for centuries and encompasses a comprehensive system for understanding personality, relationships, life path and more, in more recent times pop culture has placed an emphasis on the Sun Sign.

Each planet represents part of one’s personality. The Sun is associated with ego, identity and personal strengths. The Sun in the chart shows how you ‘shine’ and describes your creative talents. While the Sun is only a part of the Natal Chart, it provides a convenient overview of understanding personality and strengths at a glance.

Like reading the back cover of a book to get a sense of what the book is about, understanding the Sun Sign gives a glimpse of key aspects of your identity and sense of strength, where you are optimistic, confident and gifted.
How do I express my ego and how can I evolve into my true self?

Your ego compels you to fight for power and control and perceive life as a battle where everybody is against you.

If you take advantage of your ability to see the weaknesses of others you'll have little sensitivity towards their suffering, causing harm without empathy for those you impact.

You can reach your true self by using your intuitive skills in the most elevated way transcending the need for ordinary power and embracing authentic inner power and love. You know how to look deep into people and understand their issues.

When you act from your higher self you can use such skills to trigger the most powerful transformation and regeneration tools to heal yourself and others.

This answer is related to your Sun in Scorpio.
How do I express my life goals?

Your personality is strong and you attract others.

You are a quiet observer, and even though you speak little, others still notice you easily. You are very intense and passionate in all you do and never do something half-heartedly.

You prefer being emotionally attached to your job. You protect yourself and don’t trust others easily, which makes you suspicious. You hide your true self and emotions behind a solid wall.

Mysteries intrigue and excite you and you want to jump right into the deep, hidden aspects of other people, burrowing into their personalities and unearthing their inner thoughts. You are insightful and very philosophical and clear.

You are also to the point, straightforward, and can be a bit argumentative in how you express yourself. While some people like this, others misunderstand it and your confrontational nature can cost you friendships. So, be judicious about how you use your insight and use your gifts of in depth understanding to manipulate others.

This answer is related to your Sun in Scorpio.
Introduction to the Moon

Each planet reveals secrets about how you relate to others and the world around you as well as your inner world.

The Moon Sign is the sign that the Moon is in at the time of your birth. The Moon is associated with emotions, intuition, nurturing and your desire for security.

When the Moon is in a fire sign like Leo you seek security through gaining the approval and attention of others. If your Moon Sign is Capricorn, you seek security through routines, traditions and practicality.

Business, work, money and institutions give you the sense of stability. You may be reserved in expressing your motions and try to be productive rather than brooding.

Moon in Pisces however, is more nurturing, emotional, compassionate, spiritual and creative. This placement helps you empathize with others but can also lead you to mistake others’ feelings for your own. Knowing your Moon Sign can help you understand your capacity for intuition and emotional expression.
What kind of person do I feel most comfortable being around?

You feel especially comfortable with people that recognize your importance, your value, and how wonderful you are. Someone that compliments you and make you feel special by giving you all the attention and letting you shine.

In the same way, you adore being in the presence of important, prestigious people who enjoy the luxurious side of life as much as you do and who manifest their success in life through their skills.

On the other hand, your need to be recognized makes you sometimes believe you are above other people, bringing an authoritarian attitude and thinking you are always right. Treat your friends and partners as equals, if they feel like you are very demanding and self-centered, chances are they won't stick around.

This answer is related to your Moon in Leo.
How do I deal with my feelings?

You are the master of drama. You live with passion every day of your life. Your emotions run high and being in love brings so much joy and excitement into your life that you are always looking for it. However, you can manage your feelings if it involves maintaining an impeccable image in public.

Even when you seem to exaggerate your feelings, they are genuine and come from the bottom of your heart.

Your big heart hides a haughty attitude. You just can't understand how someone could not want to be with you. You are highly sensitive to indifference, if you feel you are not being treated the way you deserve, you leave.

This answer is related to your Moon in Leo.
How is my inner child?

Your inner child feels unique, special, and at the center of the universe. You need to be desired. You need people to celebrate your talents and accomplishments.

You got used to being worthy of recognition effortlessly during your childhood, and this joyful experience is deeply rooted inside you, so that you just can't conceive of the idea of not being admired and treated like royalty.

While you actually have an inner dignity and authority, learn to be a member of a group without seeking recognition, get out of the ego and connect with your most humanitarian side.

Even when your sense of dignity and personal value is very strong, ironically, you don't believe in yourself unless you are being praised and assured by others.

This answer is related to your Moon in Leo.
What nurtures me emotionally?

Recognition, approval, and attention. Everything that make you feel admired, seen, and successful.

Displaying your talents and creativity, taking acting classes, dancing, hosting a party, dressing up, working on a project where you can contribute with your ideas and get praised for it, organizing an event. Children are a great way to replenish your energies, as you really enjoy and have fun with them.

It is not that hard to please you, you only ask for respect, obedience, admiration and applauds, easy, right? So, when you feel you are not being treated the way you deserve or if you ever get rejected or ignored, you feel your sense of dignity is being trampled on and you feel humiliated.

Your happiness doesn't depend upon what others think of you. There is always going to be people that won't like you, that is the same for everybody in this world.

It is ok to satisfy your urgency to draw attention to yourself, but beware it doesn’t become a compulsion, as this can make you act in a very exuberant way, and being too loud makes you seem like an extreme attention seeker.
This answer is related to your Moon in Leo.
How do I get emotionally hurt and how can I protect myself?

You become emotionally hurt when people don't give you the recognition you think you deserve, when they ignore you or don't see your value. You also become very hurt when your public image is not as perfect as you need it to be.

You need to tame your pride and accept that cooperation can be more fulfilling than being at the center of attention.

Introduction to Mercury

Mercury is the messenger of the planets. Therefore Mercury’s placement in the Birth Chart gives clues as to how you perceive the world around you, your thought process, communication style and mental energy.

Mercury in an air sign like Gemini or Aquarius is amplified as it adds intellectual power and gives you logical, intellectual gifts and insights.

Mercury in a water sign like Cancer can lead you to intellectualize your feelings but also to balance your emotional sensitivity with logic. When Mercury is in a fire sign such as Aries, you may be quick witted but also have a sharp tongue and can use your words to empower or destroy your adversaries.

Mercury is adaptable so even in an Earth sign you may find greater flexibility, for example Mercury in Virgo gives focus to practical details and amplifies Mercury’s analytical power as Mercury rules this sign.
How do I express my intellect?

You have a strong will and desire to understand what goes on in the background, what is not immediately clear, and what is kept hidden.

You like getting to the bottom of things to find out the mysteries inside. You aren't happy with basic knowledge, and search for the deepest truths of life and death.

You possess an astute and powerful intellect, and can focus your thoughts strongly for hours when you try to reveal something mysterious. You can do well studying just about anything.

You are very stubborn when you mind is made up. You are extremely tenacious and passionately devoted to your philosophies.

Once you made your opinions, through personal and frequently unconventional means, not a soul can sway you from them, even with rational persuasion.

When focused on revealing what you hold dear without keeping it secret, your intense insight can pierce and show people that their words have a deeper connotation. Then you can help other people to see, search and love the depth.
This answer is related to your Mercury in Scorpio.
What's my communication style?

In your verbal communication you are disposed to be direct, to the point, at times cruelly mocking. You make your point without mincing words, and you don't care who you hurt along the way.

You get your opinion across passionately and persuasively, and love a good dispute against a worthy adversary.

Your speaking is infused with charm and fascination, revealing mental strength, shrewdness and ability to lead.

You instinctively understand the things people desire hearing, and are crafty and able to manipulate their feelings, which makes you able to persuade people and drive them to do what you want.

This answer is related to your Mercury in Scorpio.
What is the best way for me to learn new things?

You love to research. You learn best when you can study in depth and not be distracted by demands of daily life. You may seclude yourself in a den or library and tune out the rest of the world while you dive into learning a new subject.

You respond well to challenges that allow you to delve beneath the surface and uncover information that at first may appear mysterious or arcane. You like to be a detective on the search for clues. You are likely to be intrigued by information and topics not easily understood by others. Taboo subjects or topics that involve controversy also appeal to you.

You are likely to have a knack for psychology and studies of human nature, especially the dark side of human nature such as forensic psychology.

Your study time is best spent in a methodical search that reveals the deep underlying aspects of a subject. You like to unravel layer after layer as you strive for expertise in a given field. Topics that give you a cutting edge or power over others are of interest to you as well.

Your mind is intense and you may become obsessive about a topic until you have thoroughly examined it from every angle and mastered the subject.
This answer is related to your Mercury in Scorpio.
Introduction to Venus

You don’t have to be an astrology pro to recognize the association between Venus and love. In the Birth Chart, Venus also is associated with what you value, how you attract relationships or your sense of beauty and how you find comfort and aesthetic security.

Venus in Aries is passionate, impulsive in love and values strength and initiative. Venus in an earth sign like Taurus places emphasis on security and valuing materialism, comfort and reliability.

When Venus is in a water sign like Scorpio, attraction needs to be emotional and intuitive as well as physical and you are likely to express your romantic interest through focused pursuit and desire for intimacy.

If your natal Venus is in an air sign like Aquarius, you may fall in love with ideals and ideas much more so than with specific people. Your sense of value is intellectual rather than emotional and you need to be intellectually stimulated to fall in love.
What kind of personality do I desire?

You desire a partner who is physically attractive and who has a good sense of art and culture. A partner you can enjoy theater, music and movies with.

You desire someone who can be your partner in every sense of the word. Someone who is enough of your polar opposite to provide some interesting energetic tension while also being able to keep harmonious connection and an open flow of energy.

You seek pleasure and enjoyment in life and the person you desire will have a sensual side that matches your own. You desire someone who has a compassionate side and knows how to be romantic and sentimental yet who also understands your need for independence and connection to your friends.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What is my approach to romance and how do I express my romantic side?

You require harmony and peace in your relationships. You have a gentle, tactful and romantic attitude and can't stand quarrels or anger.

You love to please your partner and are sensitive to their needs, willing to compromise to keep their affection. You have a sensor that understands the others' feelings. If your partner is happy, so you are.

You really need to be in a relationship because you express yourself at your best when you share your life with your beloved. An individualistic life is not for you, so you yearn for a stable relationship.

You enjoy art in its many forms, love to go to exhibitions with your partner and you want as well shape your relationship as a piece of art by creating beauty around you.

You like to adorn yourself with beautiful clothing and accessories and take care of your appearance in a classy way, not provocative or suggestive.

You need your relationships to be based on equality and fairness, well balanced in every aspect.
For the sake of keeping the peace you might become adulatory or over-agreeable thus becoming shallow and lacking substance in others' eyes.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What's the best way for me to attract a potential partner?

You attract with your graceful and pleasing manners which makes your significant other feel valued in the way you always wanted to be.

You enchant with the harmony of body and soul and the attention to the right appearance and words.

You fascinate others with your social connections and the way you communicate with them.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What turns me off in romance and relationships?

You dislike anything excessive or loud in behaviors and in appearances, and anybody who is unrefined and rough. This can extend also to high spontaneity and direct demonstrations of passion.

Since you are easily hurt, you can't handle conflicts and tend to separate from people who can't control their impulses.

Pushy people don't win your heart either. You need to take your time to make your decision, which are often well evaluated and reflected.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I turn off lovers and potential partners?

You turn off people when you want to fascinate at any cost by forcing your natural appeal, thus looking fake and superficially flirting.

People dislike when you protect your insecurities by sticking to social norms and formalities. To that end, you don't look natural when you want to control your feelings in order to look “good” at all costs.

If you try hard to be too nice, people don't know the real you and they can't relate to you in an authentic way. Wanting to conform to what you think people expect makes your personality lacking well-defined values and traits.

Since you have a high standard about manners and appearances, it can become an impossible mission for your partner to fulfill your requests and it might choose to give up all-together.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What attracts me to others in romance and relationships?

You are attracted by elegant, graceful and refined people, both in the personality and on the external appearance. Good manners, politeness and even some formalities and etiquette resonates with your approach to romance.

Since your aesthetic taste is high developed, you need an appealing person.

You are also fascinated by intellectual stimulation and by poetry, which you see as elegance in words.

Through your relationships you also seek social status and a wide net of connection with interesting and beautiful people.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
Which are the words that will make me walk away from a relationship?

You value fairness and equality, and always want to give people the benefit of the doubt. Yet you have your limits. These phrases will tip the scales out of favor of your potential loved one.

“I need some ‘me time’…”

You are a partnering person. The concept of self care, while important to any relationship, puts you on edge. You are most successful when collaborating with others and can’t understand why anyone would prefer to act as a lone wolf. You will feel personally rejected if your partner insists on needing their space.

Other phrases likely to end your relationship include any remark critical of the disenfranchised. You are idealistic and value justice. A partner who expresses bias, ignorance or prejudice crosses a line with you. You are even likely to forgive your significant other for personal slights before you will overlook any remarks condemning an oppressed group.

You are typically easy going and it takes a lot to rattle your cage, but if your partner shows any sign of being conceited, self centered or lacking in empathy you will start to weigh whether the relationship is worth continuing.

In relationships, what are my biggest strengths and insecurities?

Among your many talents is a gift for bringing harmony and balance to the lives of those you love. You have a knack for helping others to see the perspective they are lacking.

You strive to keep others balanced by providing the missing puzzle pieces, filling in the point of view that is under represented whether you agree personally or not.

Your ability to be fair and to see situations from different angles is a gift you bring to your relationships. It also helps you to empathize with and appreciate others.

Your biggest insecurity however is being alone. You thrive on partnership both romantic and otherwise. When left to your own devices you struggle to assert yourself. As much as you are the sounding board for others, you also need someone in your life to help you sort out your ideas and stick to your goals.

You fear being alone and may partner with others for romance or business who are not truly your best match, but who are available.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What games do I play in relationships that will sabotage me?

You test your significant others to see how much they admire you and how far they are willing to go to be your partner. Relationships are important to you and yet you love the idea of partnership sometimes more than the actual logistics of pairing with someone.

You tend to idealize your significant others and then will test them to see if they do in fact live up to your image of them.

Though you are peaceful and adaptable, you are secretly keeping track of who is exerting more of the energy in the relationship. If you feel that your efforts aren’t reciprocated you may employ some games to test your partner’s willingness to go the extra mile for you. To you this isn’t game playing, its bringing things into balance.

You are charming and social and aren’t afraid to use flirtation to test your partner’s response and see how dedicated to you they are.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What is the dark side of my love life?

You are peace loving and compassionate when balanced emotionally. However when your energy is not balanced your Shadow side emerges.

This dark side of your attraction energy can be superficial, craving beauty, attention and admiration but lacking in emotional depth.

You may become enamored with the idea of being in a relationship and overlook the fact that you are in partnership with another human being with their own needs, feelings and personality.

Rather than seeing your partner for who they are you are likely to project your unmet needs unto your partner, instead of honoring their unique perspective and individuality.

When you are not balanced you may become indulgent, seeking pleasure through flirtation, partying and affairs.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How can I catch his or her eye?

You love balance, harmony and beauty. Someone who wants to catch your attention will dress well, show their interest in music, art and culture and provide intriguing conversation and even some light debate.

You will notice how your date treats others. Do they tip generously and speak kindly to waitstaff? Or are they rude and condescending? If you see compassion and humanitarian qualities, you will be more interested in a second date.

You will also be intrigued by a date who shares your sense of romance and aesthetics. Someone who goes the extra mile to create mood through an atmosphere of romance and sentimentality.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What leads to heartbreak for me?

You value beauty, balance and equality. You work best in partnership with others and assume the same is true for those you love.

This is not always the case, however. You will end up feeling heartbroken if you feel rejected or abandoned by others.

This can be true both if actual abandonment has taken place or if you perceive abandonment because your loved one simply wants to do certain things alone or worse, with other people but not with you.

Nothing feels worse to you than being left out or alone.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What annoys me most in a relationships?

You love balance, harmony and equality and love to create beauty for those around you. When others don’t appreciate the value of the arts and culture it annoys you.

You are also irked by any type of bigotry or prejudice. You can’t stand inequality and will be annoyed by social injustices.

You don’t understand why some people ignore their senses, especially the sense of sight. Rooms which are poorly decorated, outfits that don’t match or break fashion rules and people who dismiss the power of style, color and image offend your senses.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I heal from heartbreak?

If there’s one thing that is worse than feeling out of balance after the loss of a relationship, it is feeling the deep emotional turmoil. You prefer harmony and happiness and don’t do well with murky deep emotional gunk. Yet that is exactly what this time calls for.

Allow yourself to be an observer of your emotional ups and downs. Lean on your friends for support. Let your artistic or musical skills be an outlet to help you express yourself.

You love to be in love and being heartbroken can damage your sense of self esteem. You don’t like being rejected or feeling alone. Yet it is important that you not rush into a rebound relationship thinking that doing so will balance the scales. This will only backfire on you.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What makes me turn green with envy?

You are sensitive to all things beautiful and are keenly aware of the power of image. This is what draws you to art, theater, decorating and exploring culture.

It can also make you conscious of your own image and appearance. You know there is power in portraying beauty and may become envious of others who seem to be the image of perfection.

You exude charm and beauty naturally, yet you may have certain features you wish were different. When you see others whose face, hair or body look the way you wish yours did, it stirs your envy.

You can also be indecisive and may envy others who are determined and focused because it causes you so much anxiety to make a decision.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I express my jealousy?

You prefer to keep the peace and want everyone to get along. You can’t stand feeling envy because it means you are generating your own discomfort.

You may try to blame others for creating your insecurities. It is more likely however that you will become passive and drop hints, hoping those around you will respond to your hurt feelings and restore balance, showing you the attention and admiration you desire to soothe your insecurities and envy.

You may try to sublimate your envy through your artistic talent or even through indulging in a shopping trip, food or wine. It will not make you feel better in the long run.

You may also look to others outside your relationship for admiration and an ego boost, making the problem even worse because now you have leveled the scales by engaging in the same behavior that upset you in the first place.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I fall for co-dependent relationships?

You believe life should be fair and that everyone should have an equal chance at success. When you perceive that someone who has captivated your interest and who seems to have been dealt an unfair hand, you feel compelled to overcompensate for what they are lacking.

En route to creating what you believe will eventually be balance, you may give up your time, energy, emotion, money and opportunities. You may come to feel responsible for the person and place your life on hold trying to uplift them.

Eventually you will realize that the scales are equalizing not by lifting your partner up, but by sinking you into a downward spiral.

When you have this epiphany you will struggle with the choice to leave or change the dynamic because you will second guess whether you did enough to try to get your loved one back on track. You will wonder if their miraculous turnaround is just around the corner and will give every effort you can to try to save your loved one from their own demons.

You may allow yourself to be completely taken hostage in the relationship, convincing yourself that it is not fair to succeed when another is stuck on a sinking ship of their own creation.

You can make other choices though and if you choose to jump on the lifeboat and head for shore, you will eventually come to see how imbalanced the entire relationship was.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What makes others notice me?

You embody beauty and balance. Others may first be attracted to your physical appearance and fashion sense - you know how to play up your best features - yet your personal energy is just as attractive.

You are warm, kind and loving. Your bubbly personality impacts everyone you meet. Others can tell you take a genuine interest in uplifting them. You are also fair and conscientious.

Your partner will be attracted to your big heart, which you wear openly on your sleeve. You are not dripping with emotion typically, yet you openly display your compassion for others.

Your partner will also be attracted to your superb taste in art and culture. You display your sensual side. Both your wardrobe, appearance and home décor reflect your refined tastes and this gets the attention of others.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I sabotage my relationships?

You can’t help keeping an invisible- or actual- scoresheet.

Any Virgo would admire your attention to detail when it comes to keeping a record of who has done what. Your tendency to monitor the give and take in relationships isn’t bad on the surface.

It’s only when you don’t openly assert yourself when things get out of balance. You don’t want to rock the boat, so you will just keep up your tally until one day your list of grievances and slights will far outweigh your list of positives.

If you find ways to assert your needs and speak up when you feel things are out of balance, you are much less likely to build up resentments.

You also won’t be as susceptible to sabotaging your relationships if you work are mindful not to only focus on the weak spots but also consider your partner’s strengths.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What is my break up style?

You love to be in love and are a hopeless romantic. When a relationship becomes more drama than fairy tale, you will start to become disheartened.

You don’t like to cause a scene, so you will try to rationalize your own feelings, convincing yourself that things are better than they are.

At the same time, you really aren’t thrilled about dealing with the mundane, boring or emotionally icky aspects of relationships. You withdraw from the emotional heavy lifting and become even more disappointed that things can’t simply go back to the way they used to be.

While you are reliving the honeymoon phase, you may flirt your way into a new relationship. Always one to be fair, you will likely avoid a full fledged affair right away. The idea of a new romance will give you added inspiration to move on, however.

When breaking up you will be as kind and subtle as possible. “It’s not you, it’s me” is a saying that was probably coined by someone with the planet of love in Libra. You will also try your best to still be friends and you may succeed in doing this.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
Which type of person will I never get over?

You love the idea of the perfect partner. The one who makes you feel like your complementary matching book end. When you meet someone who is compatible without being too similar, you will feel like the scales have been evenly balanced.

You are romantic and fair minded. The person you perceive to be your ideal will understand your altruism but also challenge you so that you don’t become complacent.

You will appreciate that this person sees the beauty in all things and shares your love of culture and art. You will wonder if there could possibly be another human being on earth who would sit through the opera with you like this special person.

A lot of people may take direct initiative and be decisive, an area you struggle with. Yet it is this special person that you will never fully let go of that not only helps support your decisions, but whose opinions you can trust to be fair and not self serving.

This person who appreciates justice and romance as much as you and who can relate to your soft side without being too needy or weepy is the one you will not easily get over if the relationship ends.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I hurt my partner?

You aren’t an aggressive person and prefer to make peace than to hurt anyone. Yet you love to be in love and feel admired. As a result you may seek the attention of others through innocent flirtation which can arouse the suspicion and jealousy of your partner.

This will be compounded if you continuously take others’ sides in conflict. Often you do this to present your loved one with a balanced viewpoint.

You will show the other side of the story, yet your partner may perceive it as you not siding with them and showing your support for everyone else instead.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What makes me commit to a long term relationship?

You love to be in love, yet decisiveness is not your strong suit. You are inclined to go with the flow and let others take the lead when it comes to relationship milestones.

You may get carried away in your ideas of the ideal relationship and let your partner set the pace.

When they want to cohabit, you will likely go along with the plan. When they propose or hint that it is time for you to propose, you will also likely feel inclined to follow through.

As long as you genuinely feel connected to your partner and uplifted by their love of art, culture and beauty, you won’t hold back when they initiate advancement of the relationship.

This is because you are peace loving and harmonious and you tend to trust the direction of others rather than having a clear sense of what you want for yourself.

You rely on your partner to be a sounding board. If you trust them and they deem it appropriate to commit, you have no reason to doubt their instincts.
Yet if you are enamored with a partner who is showing no signs of commitment, rather than initiating progress you are more likely to become frustrated and then withdrawn, expecting them to take the hint, or waiting for someone else to take their place.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
How do I express my sensual nature?

You are highly sensual and it is easy for you to express this part of your nature. You are attuned to beauty especially visual stimuli.

Harmony and balance are important to you. You express your sensuality through attention to your physical appearance and the image you portray. Your style is romantic and flirty and you know how to intrigue others.

You also feel sensual when you are being admired by others. You like when others notice the effort you put into your appearance and the appearance of your home. Your sensuality is heightened when energy is being shared evenly as you are all about balance.

Music, the arts, poetry and other creative outlets help you express your sensual nature. You may do special things to add beauty to your partner’s home. If you cook for them, you will make sure the food has a pleasant appearance as well as being delicious.

This answer is related to your Venus in Libra.
What I can and can't forgive in relationships?

You prefer cultivating beauty and peace to creating resentments and grudges. You are also good at taking others’ perspectives and looking at a situation from various angles. As a result you easily forgive others for most infractions.

You will be less likely to forgive when you feel others are showing prejudice. Intentional acts that harm others or marginalize groups are extremely offensive to you. You will not forgive those who act out of racist or sexist motivations for example.

When someone you love reveals their shadow side, it is troubling to you. You don’t want to abandon your partner, yet you also don’t tolerate negativity well.

If someone you love shows contempt for the underprivileged or acts to intentionally tip the scales in their own favor, you will not accept such selfish motivations. You are likely to hold a grudge against someone who demonstrates a lack of compassion for others.

Introduction to Mars

Mars is the warrior planet. The placement in this planet in your Birth Chart indicates where you take initiative and how you show independence, ambition and courage. How you express passions and anger are also indicated by Mars.

Mars in Sagittarius makes you a philosophical warrior, motivated by ideals and justice. Mars in Pisces may give you motivation to pursue your artistic and spiritual pursuits and adds passion to your compassionate side. You are likely to turn your anger inward or try to stifle conflict.

Mars in an air sign like Gemini can lead you to intellectualize your passion and use your courage to speak for others. When Mars is in an earth sign such as Capricorn, you are motivated to pursue your ambitions through business and creating stability and your focus is balanced with perseverance and patience.

Mars can indicate your potential for independence, willfulness and style of leadership as well as your potential to be an initiator or to be impulsive.
What's my natural active sexual attitude?

Your lovers never go unsatisfied with you, you put special effort at mastering your sexual techniques and your attention goes into the details.

You have very agile hands and know how to use them. You need intense love sessions that can last long time, you want sex to be methodical, clean, organized and even scheduled from time to time.

You find it hard to open up about your sexual fantasies, but you could dare to try new experiences as long as you admire and trust your lover.

This answer is related to your Mars in Virgo.
What's the best way for me to actively seduce a potential partner?

You are methodical, detail-oriented, adaptable, meticulous and pragmatic. Your energy is very mental, analytical and precise. You like to plan absolutely everything when it comes to seducing.

You like to be clean, neat and aligned and your care for health is also important to feel comfortable with the object of your desires. When choosing a lover, you follow your logical reasoning as much as your feelings.

You are a multitasker who might impress more than one with your wide range of skills.

This answer is related to your Mars in Virgo.
What kind of personality ignites my passion?

You desire a person with a simple and healthy lifestyle, a person who doesn't like to show off but who does their job with expertise. You connect well with people who possess a high level of intelligence which they apply to practical problems instead of empty intellectual ventures. You see attention to details as a form of love.

You are passionate about being of service to others and are intrigued by people who are experts in the area of health, environmental preservation, or wellness. You are turned on by those who share their gifts in a selfless way yet who are also practical and not too radical for your modest tastes.

This answer is related to your Mars in Virgo.
How do I translate past wounds into special wisdom and healing for others?

When Chiron is in Libra, you are acutely aware of imbalances and need to maintain equilibrium. You are sensitive to rejection and may feel like you need validation from a partner or significant other.

One of your biggest wounds and lessons in life is to balance your own needs. Finding your own beauty, love and validation takes you on a journey to healing past traumas.

Learning self-sufficiency is a big part of your healing journey. As you become more aware of your beauty and capacity for self-love, you can also become a role model for others who struggle to find acceptance and validation.

Your difficult experiences with unhealthy or toxic relationships can help you heal others. You may come to share your experience to benefit those who are struggling with similar challenges.

You are intuitively aware of the importance of validation and balance and can see the beauty in others but struggle to see the same beauty within yourself.

This answer is related to your Chiron in Libra.
Introduction to Lilith

Lilith is an asteroid that Astrologers look to in the Natal Chart. Like her Biblical Namesake, Lilith indicates how you are moved by powerful subconscious instincts to rebel against oppression.

Lilith describes your sensitivity to confinement and suppression and motivates you to fight back against people or aspects of society that try to dominate your natural instincts.

Lilith’s energy triggers your deep intuition and instincts can lead you to break away from conventional wisdom and unleash your raw emotion in rebellion.

Understanding the sign in which Lilith is placed in your chart can show you how your dark, subconscious, hidden side can help fuel your confidence and belief in yourself.

You can work with your Lilith placement and aspects to establish your independent power. Lilith can also help you make peace with and accept your sexuality. Lilith in the chart shows you how your sexuality and individuality can help motivate you to be true to your inner, wild nature rather than conforming to the standards of others.
How do I express my pure emotion and deal with inner rage?

You are confident, creative and have a huge and generous heart but you demand a certain level of recognition and praise.

When your efforts to take charge are undermined, you will unleash your lion’s roar and you become a force to be reckoned with.

You are confident in your instincts and this adds power to your rebellious nature. You don’t respond well to anyone trying to change your nature, limit your power or squash your creativity.

When you feel like others are trying to make you conform to their standards, you can unleash a torrent of rage. You also reserve this deep seated anger for anyone who fails to show you appreciation and admiration for your efforts.

Not only do you demand your freedom but you also insist on remaining in control and in the lead. You will make sure your unique personality is not stifled by those in authority.

This answer is related to your Lilith in Leo.
Introduction to Ceres

Ceres is the asteroid named for the Goddess of nurturing and sustenance.

The Roman Goddess Ceres is associated with agriculture, food, nurturing and motherly love. She is also, as the Goddess of grain and agriculture, associated with abundance. Ceres in the Natal Chart shows where and how we find nurturing in our own lives.

Not only does Ceres show how we look for nurturing and emotional fulfillment, but also Ceres shows us how you will look to nurture others. Your compassion and unconditional love is also described by Ceres. In some ways we can look to Ceres to describe the kind of unwavering love that a mother shows to her children.

Ceres in the chart can show where you may receive or give love, abundance and benevolence. How you share your compassion and unconditional love is also suggested by this asteroid’s placement in the Natal Chart.
How do I express my potential for nurturing?

Your nurturing style is inspirational and philosophical. You help others find their higher spiritual connection.

When you love someone, you do everything you can to help them see their full potential. You are part mentor, part cheerleader for your loved ones.

You will try to nurture the dreams and aspirations of those you love. When you care about someone, you won’t let any limitations stand in their way.

Instead, you’ll promote their growth and independence. You’re never clingy or needy. You show affection and love by giving those you care about space to roam free. You’re always there to give wise and compassionate guidance, but you don’t interfere with their choices.

You’ll try to help your loved ones make meaning and find purpose in every situation. You have an optimistic attitude toward your loved ones and you try to bring out the best in everyone.

This answer is related to your Ceres in Sagittarius.
Introduction to Pallas

Pallas is an asteroid named for Pallas Athena, the Greek Goddess associated with wisdom, intellect and warfare. Pallas is considered a war strategist and also a mentor.

In the Odyssey, Pallas Athena was also known as Mentor and would suddenly appear just when Odysseus needed guidance or insight. In the Natal Chart, Pallas represents your capacity for brilliant insight and wisdom and also your fighting spirit.

How you create a winning strategy and how you fight for what you believe in are also described by Pallas. Pallas can show how you push to get your vision across and how you rally others in support of your campaign or mission, especially when justice or creating equality is involved.

Thus Pallas is associated with righteousness and strategy. Pallas is also associated with being able to see the bigger picture and connect the dots, seeing patterns that others miss.
How do I strategize to bring justice and to fight for what I believe in?

Your style of seeking justice and equality is benevolent and philosophical.

You are honest but you know how to appeal to a particular audience. While you don’t change your stance, you are adept at appealing to the ideals of particular groups within a larger audience.

As a result, you’re able to uplift and inspire those you address. Your skill is not confronting others or dogmatically expecting them to agree with you. Instead, you appeal to their humanitarian side and spiritual ideals. You encourage others to find the right answer for themselves by asking philosophical questions.

Though you know this can take a longer time, you believe in raising the floor in order to create progress. You may strive to also be a living example of your ideals, showing others how to create progress by being the embodiment of your beliefs.

This answer is related to your Pallas in Sagittarius.
Introduction to Juno

Juno is the asteroid named for the Goddess Juno, the counterpoint of Jupiter. This asteroid in the Natal Chart shows your potential for marriage and also how you are likely to view long term relationships.

Juno also represents your unconditional love and potential to hold on to a commitment or partnership. According to myth, Juno was a devoted wife but also witnessed the numerous infidelities of her husband who would frequently stray from the marriage. While Juno was associated with faithfulness and keeping the homefires burning, Juno in the Natal Chart can also show how you respond to infidelity or how you deal with jealousies.

Thus Juno represents both commitment and betrayal and how you respond to betrayal. Juno also shows the potential for commitment or marriage and how seriously you regard your commitments.

Juno also shows how we approach compromise and how we deal with hardships in a commitment, as Juno tries to work through adversity rather than give up on the relationship.
How do I show my devotion and potential for marriage or romantic commitments?

Your approach to commitment and marriage may seem to be intense or impulsive.

When you first see the person you want to spend the rest of your life with, you instinctively know it right away. Or at least you become convinced that you know it.

Even if the other person is not ready, you’ll wait and watch, with a one track mind, convinced that you’ve found the answer to your prayers.

When there are conflicts, you aren’t afraid to push back and stand up for yourself. Yet you’ll fight to stay together even if it means fighting with your partner tooth and nail.

Yet if anyone makes any slight criticism of your partner, you’ll go into attack mode. You’ll defend and protect the person you love. If your partner does anything to betray you, you’ll express your jealousy and anger, but you won’t let the relationship go.

This answer is related to your Juno in Aries.
Introduction to Vesta

Vesta, the asteroid, is named for the Virgin Goddess of the Hearth and of purity but also of divine inspiration.

In antiquity, the Vestal Virgins or dedicants of Vesta, would devote their lives to keeping the sacred flame in this Goddess’s temple for a number of years. During this time, their lives were disciplined and austere. After their service was completed, they were able to “retire” to a life of status for their service.

In the Natal Chart, Vesta represents your call to divine service and sacrifices you make in pursuit of your mission. Vesta in the Natal Chart can also help you see how you approach issues to which you are dedicated, your mission and sudden inspiration and the potential for you to align with the Divine through things that inspire the “sacred flame” within you.

Unlike the commitment to partnership represented by Juno, Vesta shows your commitment to higher service and self-sacrifice in favor of a sacred mission or obligation.
How do I express my deep sense of spiritual calling and purity?

You are at your best when your philosophical nature and idealism are channeled for the good of society.

You may be drawn to a role as a healer or advocate for others. This helps you to serve your spiritual mission. You work best when you are educating or advocating for vast crowds. You can be inspiring and uplifting to others and are drawn to the sciences, culture and philosophy to express your mission and expand others’ ideas.

You may go on a quest, combining your calling with a need to travel and expand your mind. Travel may be ritualistic for you or you may have rituals related to higher education, expanding your knowledge or rituals related to personal growth.

You find purity through expanding your mind and initiation or ritual for you may involve taking risks to bring society forward into more inclusive and progressive ideals.

Your sacred mission leads you to try to educate others and create higher understanding regarding society and the humanities.

This answer is related to your Vesta in Sagittarius.
Introduction to Eros

Eros is an asteroid named for the Greek God of infatuation.

Often associated with love, Eros is more accurately described as obsession or addictive love or lust. Thus Eros in the Natal Chart describes how you lose control of your mind when your passions are triggered.

Eros can show what you can’t resist and your sexual fetishes. Eros can also describe how you lose control of your senses and can be the key to exploring your sexual desires. Eros is associated with objectification of different parts of the body or different aspects of sexual experiences rather than the romantic love or empathic love felt for a whole individual.

Thus Eros is also associated with obsessive love or addictive like desires for sexual gratification. Erotic fetishes and the exploration of sexual pleasure is also associated with this asteroid. Eros can describe your potential to lose yourself in sexual encounters and look for pleasure through objectification.
What triggers my sexual arousal and obsessions?

You may be drawn to fantasize about ideal love.

You may also feel a strong sexual attraction to those from other cultures, to the extent that you may fetishize some aspect of dress, culture or appearance rather than connecting with your partner.

You have a healthy sexual appetite that leads you to want to explore pleasure in every possible way. You may also have a secret desire to either engage in sexual connection in public places or while others are watching, or to be sexually involved with a number of people at once.

You can become obsessed with expansion and adventure and eager to try new things in sexual encounters. You need to have a partner or partners who are as vital and active as you are. You may be more sexually energized if you are active in other ways.

Hiking, camping, playing sports or other rigorous or adventurous activities can stimulate your sexual appetite.

Introduction to the houses in the signs

An astrological chart is comprised of several building blocks. The planets indicate aspects of your personality or life path while the signs indicate the ‘flavoring’ each planet will have.

The houses are an underappreciated aspect of the chart but are significant. Each chart is divided into twelve sections called houses. Even if a house has no planets in it, it will still have a specific sign.

The houses show what life area that the traits described by the signs are best expressed. For example, when Virgo is in the first house, the place of appearance and outward identity, you will embody the analytical, practical energy through your first impressions and body language.

If Aquarius is in the Tenth House, associated with career and status, an unusual career path is likely. If Pisces is in the Second House, associated with income and value, your sense of value may be based more on sentiment and emotion more than practicality.
Introduction to the first house

The Astrological Chart is broken into twelve houses, each with a specific ruling planet and sign which represents a specific life area.

At any given moment, you can determine which planets and signs are in any of the twelve houses and this is especially significant in the Birth Chart as each house and the planets and signs therein describe how certain traits or archetypes are expressed in your life.

The First House is ruled by Mars and the sign Aries and therefore determines our appearance, body image and independent personality. The Sign on the cusp of the First House is considered the Ascendant or Rising Sign and is an indicator of outward personality and first impressions.

Planets in the First House add significance to your personality or appearance. Saturn in the First House or First House in Capricorn can make you appear more mature and serious. First House in Cancer or Moon in First House creates a nurturing, intuitive and business savvy personality and soft, emotional appearance.
What does my Ascendant reveal about my mannerisms and first impressions?

Sagittarius Ascendant makes you a philosopher, seeker and spiritual individual. Everything you touch or focus on is amplified and that can work for your highest good or can become a source of sabotage.

On the positive side, and with Sagittarius Rising you prefer to look at the positive, your dreams and ambitions are big and bold. You are idealistic and reach for the stars. Unlike many dreamers, you seem to have a streak of good luck and are likely to reach your goals.

On the other hand, Sagittarius in your 1st house can amplify debts or make you susceptible to weight gain. A full figure suits you as it is symbolic of your easy connection to wealth and abundance and you are attractive and radiant regardless of shape or size. Others are drawn to your generosity, friendliness, optimism and fiery spirit. You love to experience pleasure, luxury and to take risks.

You do everything on a large scale and that can include eating and spending. You aren’t great at moderation and it shows in your lifestyle and attempts to reign in your budget, drinking or eating. You may go through a revolving door of different food or spending plans and while your intentions are good it is difficult for you to bear any kind of
You are cheerful and uplifting to others. You may be drawn to advocate for others and studying law appeals to you. You are interested in science and spirituality and you may speak openly about your beliefs in metaphysics, the occult and the study of energy in both scientific and New Age terms.

Your benevolent energy is apparent to all who know you and you have a way of bringing abundance and good fortune in everything you do. You expect things to work out for the best and have no problem openly endorsing your faith and optimism. One of the reasons that you are so cheerful is your ability to land on your feet no matter what.

You are freedom loving, independent and need a wide range to explore. You are social but you don’t want to become restricted by relationships with needy people. You are likely to have many different groups of friends with whom you socialize and are comfortable with a diverse array of people. In fact you prefer it this way and can become bored easily.

You are caring and generous yet you don’t understand the importance of being emotionally present for others. Instead of listening as others recount their many sorrows, you are eager to help those around you brush off their sadness and embrace all that is wonderful in life.

Your enthusiasm and optimism may be perceived by others as not showing sympathy and support. You strive to be supportive yet you are a problem solver rather than a confidant and so you will be inclined to tell people the truth as you see it, which they may not like to hear.

You are likely to have robust energy and a larger than life presence even if your physical stature is petite. You laugh heartily and enjoy indulging in all of life’s pleasures. Others may be able to see the vitality and fiery spark of life in your eyes and smile.

You love to travel and explore different cultures and may have a collection of keychains, bumper stickers or other mementos from your many adventures.

This answer is related to your 1st house in Sagittarius.
Introduction to the second house

The Second House is ruled by Venus and the sign Taurus. Therefore it rules how we find value and stability and what makes us feel grounded and secure.

What you perceive as beautiful and valuable is also determined by the signs and planets in the Second House.

Whatever sign the Second House is in creates a connection between the qualities of the sign and the Second House attributes. Therefore even an intense sign like Leo or Second House placement of the Sun is likely to be anchored with greater practicality.

Second House in Leo is generous and can be materialistic. Second House in Aquarius may value the unusual and futuristic and may bring interest in innovation like cryptocurrency.

Second House in an earthy sign like Capricorn brings value of tradition, stability and solid frameworks. You may value the opinions of elders or routines of the past or have a love of antiques or sense of beauty connected to a previous era.
What do I value most and what is my attitude toward money and security?

With your second house in Capricorn, you seek security through the material world and this includes relying on wealth, income, money and finances as a measure of your status, worth and safety. Like the character Boxer the work horse from Orwell’s Animal Farm, your mantra in times of stress is “I will work harder.” You believe that you can conquer any challenges through increasing your self discipline.

You also believe in the potential of the self made man or woman and are inspired by stories of people going from rags to riches. You hope that enough steady patience and endurance will lead you to stability through acquiring assets that increase your net worth.

You are concerned about assets that are timeless and aren’t likely to be swayed by trends like Bitcoin. Rather you are likely to make slow and steady investments. You have an old fashioned sense of finances and values and are mistrusting of innovation. You may prefer to do your banking in person as opposed to online for example.

Although you are patient and self disciplined, you can also be efficient and approach your finances like a business person. You aren’t likely to be moved to make major purchases based on your emotions. Instead you are calculated and careful.
You may draw your income from work related to the elderly, to antiques, financial planning or from a business. You may also inherit a business or assets from elders in your family.

This answer is related to your 2nd house in Capricorn.
Introduction to the third house

The Third House is ruled by Mercury and the sign Gemini. This house rules all things related to communication, early education experiences, short distance commutes, your thought process and style of processing information as well as relationships with peers, neighbors, siblings and cousins. Your intellectual interests are likely represented by this house as well.

When the Third House is an Air sign such as Libra, it denotes a potential for artistic expression, eloquent or poetic communication style, and a need for information from various perspectives to balance out your own thinking.

In an earth sign like Virgo, your analytical strengths are heightened but focused on practical matters, service and health. If this house is in Sagittarius you may have a plethora of spiritual and cultural interests and think in broad terms or be verbose while in Pisces, this house would give you the potential to be intuitive, sensitive and compassionate minded.
3rd house in Aquarius

I think in radical, extreme and unusual terms and have opinions that are unlike anyone else. I can also shock others with my words and communication.

How do I think and communicate my ideas to others?

Your third house in Aquarius gives you high intelligence and an erratic and unusual way of perceiving the world. You think for yourself and have unusual ideas and opinions. You also love to pursue unusual topics such as conspiracy theories or metaphysical or occult subjects.

You are both intelligent and intuitive and are often ahead of your time. You can see trends as they are emerging and have a good pulse on the direction society is taking, even before others recognize changes on the horizon.

You are quick witted and can be shocking because you don’t care what others think of you and say what you think no matter how it appears to others.

Unlike many people who strive to learn new things for the sake of putting their knowledge to practical use, to further their career for example, you love to broaden your mind simply to know and understand how things work. You are a natural scientist and inventor and may love to take things apart and put them back together just to see how they work.

You are always thinking of ways to improve society and solve problems and as a result you concoct new ideas and inventions that solve both small and large scale problems.
Your ideas and gadgets may seem quirky to those around you but are sure to catch on in time.

You love to work in tandem with groups and organizations, especially to help campaign for social change. You can be a rebel and use the written and spoken word to help draw attention to issues of social justice.

You are independent and free thinking and you love to socialize but also value your space. You detest clingy people and repetition. You need change of scenery and get bored easily. Your desire for constant excitement can cause you to abruptly change routines, jobs, friends and living situation.

You may become excitable and restless and easily drop verbal bombs that shock others. You know how to get attention through your words and ideas and can excel at planning activist campaigns or marketing.

This answer is related to your 3rd house in Aquarius.
Introduction to the fourth house

A sign or planet in the Fourth House’s archetypal energy becomes associated with Cancerian matters of emotional sensitivity, home, security and family.

The Fourth House is also the location of the Imum Coeli or ‘bottom of the sky’ and shows which circumstances you feel most ‘at home.’

When the Fourth House is in Sagittarius you could feel at home traveling the world and draw security through connection to higher learning, philosophy and spirituality. You may also have come from a large family.

Fourth House in Taurus on the other hand means you require stability, predictability and comfort in order to feel at home. Fourth House in Scorpio may make you reclusive and secretive, intuitively connected to family and obsessed with security.

An air sign like Libra in the Fourth house can lead you to want a stylish home from which you host parties and entertain friends, romantic and peaceful settings are important.
What is my attitude toward home and family?

Your fourth house in Pisces gives you a romantic, sentimental and nostalgic desire to feel secure with home and family. Your desire to deeply connect with family may cloud your interpretation of actual family relationships. You may idolize certain family members for example. You may also keep yourself immersed in an illusion of happiness and tranquility when the reality of your home life is just the opposite.

Your mystical and spiritual side comes to the surface when you feel at home. Your living space may include a cozy artist’s nook where you make music and paint, or you may have a romantic fantasy theme to your private space and home.

You feel most at home in your own imagination and need ample alone time to nurture your creative inner world. You may take time to meditate or explore altering states of consciousness through prayer, drumming, ritual or use of substances, though this last option can prove detrimental to you if you are not well grounded.

You may prefer escaping into illusions to avoid reality and may feel as if you aren’t quite at home in the material world. This is because you can see much of the trappings of the physical world for what it is, a series of illusions.

At the same time you can foster quite a few illusions of your own and must be careful to remain rooted in reality.

Your early life or family upbringing may have been marked by addictions or traumas which caused you to retreat into fantasy. If you take the opportunities to thoroughly seek healing for yourself, you can become an inspiration for others to heal. If you avoid this task however, you may become trapped in a cycle of self sabotage, addiction and self sacrifice.

This answer is related to your 4th house in Pisces.
Introduction to the fifth house

The Fifth House is ruled by the Sun and Leo and so it indicates how you express creative energy.

This house is associated with your potential for or relationship with children but also the recreational interests you have and what makes you feel child like. This is also the House that shows potential for affairs or non-committal romantic interests.

Playfulness, artistic talent, confidence and inspiration are associated with this house. The sign on the cusp of this house shows much about how you engage with these areas of your life.

Fifth House in Sagittarius suggests many lovers, many interests or the desire to pursue independent travel, delve into religion or potentially have numerous children. Fifth House in Capricorn, however is very different. With this placement you may take your hobbies seriously and insist on making businesses endeavors out of your talents and interests.

You may be a serious artist or performer and have an ‘old soul’ feeling old even as a child. It is also likely that you will have obstacles related to finding your playful side or obstacles to having children.
How do I relax, have fun and flirt?

Your fifth house in Aries makes you playful, athletic and competitive. You derive pleasure from being the first to try something new or breaking new ground in some way. You also find it fun to challenge yourself and prove your strength and courage.

Sports, boot camps, agility tests or other recreational ways to test and challenge yourself are ways that you derive pleasure. You are also passionate and sexual and may seek out affairs and sexual relationships as a further way to prove yourself in conquest.

You love to be helpful to others and can have the exuberance of a young person regardless of your age. For this reason you are also drawn to children and young people. If you have children of your own it is likely to be limited to just one child as you prefer to place all of your focus on one person or goal at a time.

Also for this reason you may have hobbies that you love yet all of your focus goes into one sport, instrument, art form or recreational outlet at a time. You pour all of your energy into what you love and can seem obsessed.

Really it is because you want to be the best at everything you attempt and so you strive to outdo others even if they aren’t aware that they were in competition in the first place.
This answer is related to your 5th house in Aries.
Introduction to the sixth house

The Sixth House is ruled by Mercury as ruler of Virgo.

This house shows how you approach work (not career specifically, that is the Tenth House), daily routines, health and how you strive to be of service. Your potential for analysis and attention to details are also described here.

Aquarius in your Sixth House gives you the potential to be of service to humanity through an eccentric world view. You may serve others through work in technology.

There is nothing ordinary about your routines and schedules and you are highly intelligent but get bored easily. Cancer in the Sixth House gives you a maternal approach to being of service.

You may build your schedule and routines around the needs of your family, or work as a caretaker. Learning which Signs or planets are in the Sixth House shows you how to structure your day, approach health matters or fulfill your work interests in the most productive way.
How do I treat daily routines and what is my attitude toward work?

Your sixth house in Taurus doubles the impact of the earth element in regards to your daily work and attention to practical details. You are down to earth and love to make sure your surroundings are tidy, aesthetically pleasing, comfortable and organized.

Your daily tasks and work are likely to involve creating stability and security for others. You love to be of assistance in matters of diet, nutrition and physical healing. You may be drawn to careers in healthcare, nursing or nutrition. You love to make sure others are comfortable and are also sensitive to your own surroundings.

You won’t tolerate chaos, inconsistencies and disorganization. You take hygiene and cleanliness personally and are likely to feel insulted or disrespected if others don’t uphold your high standards of perfection and cleanliness.

You are efficient and skilled with money and finances and understand the intrinsic value of your investments. You also understand that time is money and you try to organize routines so that you waste no time getting your work done. At the same time you are not one to rush. You would rather work slowly and diligently and can be a perfectionist.

You love others but don’t allow them to get in the way of your goals. You can be nurturing but don’t tolerate others wasting your time or resources. You find it frustrating when others ask for your advice and then ignore it or when others act irrationally or let their emotions get the better of them.

This answer is related to your 6th house in Taurus.
Introduction to the seventh house

The Seventh House describes what you seek in a partner and how you manage relationships and partnerships.

Marriage, business partnerships or how you work in pairs is described in this house as well. Ruled by the sign Libra and the planet Venus, this house indicates what you are attracted to or what brings you balance.

The cusp of this house is called the Descendant and is the opposite of the Ascendant or First House. As such, this reflects the qualities you have the potential to embody but seek through connection with others.

When this house is in Leo, you may be attracted to creative, outgoing, entertaining people. When this house is in Scorpio you may be intensely attracted to people who seem mysterious, powerful and deep.

If your Seventh House is in Aquarius you may be attracted to quirky, eccentric, intellectual people who are futuristic and innovative. You may also be very independent in your approach to partnerships.
How do I approach partnerships and what do I project onto my partners?

House seven in Gemini gives emphasis to an intellectual view of partnerships. You are drawn to partners who stimulate your mind and who are adept conversationalists. You love to share your ideas with others especially on a one on one basis. You are attracted to knowledge and the minds of others moreso than their appearance.

You have a duplicitous nature when it comes to partnerships and collaborations. You like to connect with partners who add something intellectual that you aren’t already knowledgeable about so you seek partners who complement your strengths. You also need variety in your partnerships. You may be tempted to engage in affairs or have a fickle approach to your partnerships because you become bored easily.

You are very communicative in your partnerships and need to find partners who are intellectually inclined and quick minded enough to keep up with your rapidly changing ideas and numerous topics of interest. At the same time you can be emotionally detached and a partner who helps you to connect with your feelings can help you to fully experience your own emotions.

A partner who is too emotionally intense will likely overwhelm you however and you need to keep a balance between your heart and mind.
As much as you are gifted with intellectual strengths, you easily project your need for mental stimulation onto your partner. You need to recognize your own strengths in communication. You tend to view your partners as decision makers because you have numerous ideas and it is difficult for you to make up your mind.

The wandering part of your spirit can be projected onto your partners and you may attract carefree and youthful people who match your energy, or grounded and concrete thinking people who help to balance out your airy nature.

This answer is related to your 7th house in Gemini.
Introduction to the eighth house

The Eighth House is ruled by Scorpio and therefore represents how you experience deep transformation, your connection to power and authority and also how you manage assets that are shared.

Inheritances, settlements, shared business assets or resources you gain but don’t earn as wages are also represented here.

When the Eighth House is in Cancer you derive power through your nurturing and may be transformed by family or changes to your home life. You are also likely to gain a home or some resources through inheritance or family business.

Eighth House in Capricorn shows the potential for power and transformation through business and work. Connection with ancestors and elders in your family is instrumental in helping you find the healing and financial resources you need to gain stability or start in business, for example.

Eighth House in Pisces shows the need for healing through intimacy, showing compassion and relationships.
How do I approach power and control and what is my hidden source of power?

Your eighth house in the sign of Cancer places focus on your nurturing power. You may not initially realize the potency of your intuition and ability to sense what others need in order to feel emotionally secure.

When you tap into your own abilities of perception however you find great strength that helps you undergo deep personal transformation and nurture others along the way.

Your family may be a huge source of both conflicts, wounds and healing. A maternal figure in your life can help you find your strength and transform old wounds into healing opportunities. You are caring and compassionate and you may be tempted to use your emotions and intuitive perception to persuade others to act on your behalf.

You are likely to find some financial assistance even in adulthood through family connections or your own family and ability to find a stable home is likely to be helped in some way by others’ investments or resources.

The experience of parenthood or the calling to be in a nurturing role proves profoundly transformational for you and brings out a latent power you may not have been aware of.
This answer is related to your 8th house in Cancer.
Introduction to the ninth house

The Ninth House is ruled by Sagittarius and is associated with idealism, spirituality and philosophy.

The Ninth House shows where you seek breakthroughs and higher wisdom and potential for higher education, long distance travel and exploration of different cultures.

When the Ninth House is in Libra, you can have strong artistic talents often influenced by your love of different cultures. You may be drawn to advocacy and strive to bring balance and help the underdog.

With Ninth House in Leo, you may be attracted to the power associated with higher education and seek advanced degrees to help you establish yourself as a leader or performer. Ninth House in Taurus leads you to feel comfortable in settings of higher learning and spiritual exploration may be part of your livelihood and daily practice.

Ninth House in Pisces amplifies your spiritual connection and leads you to exploring the connection between healing and spirituality.
What is my attitude toward spirituality, philosophy and humanities?

Your ninth house in Leo gives emphasis to your dramatic and grandiose style. You pursue wisdom and want the whole world to know all of the things you discover on your path. You are a philosopher and may use your spirituality and generous nature to inspire and empower those around you. You can be a strong advocate for others because you are so passionate and insistent on doing what is right.

You seek the truth and justice no matter what yet you also have a knack for drawing attention to important causes and in doing so, drawing attention to yourself. You may become a poster child for different causes and you don’t mind putting yourself in the spotlight because there is no such thing as bad publicity.

You can be domineering at times because you are so strong in your beliefs though generally you are also flexible and open minded enough to be tolerant of most people and ideas. Your enthusiasm for life and desire to explore and gain new experiences can lead you to constantly seek out greener pastures and feel restless.

You are always in pursuit of advancement yet you may not spend enough time enjoying what you have accomplished. The grass may appear greener elsewhere and you are always trying to upgrade. You are attracted to affluence in all its forms. You may align yourself with powerful and influential people and usually you equate knowledge with power. You are a wisdom seeker and are likely to expand your own horizons and find leadership opportunities through institutions of law, religion or higher education.

You may pursue legal or religious studies and you can be a passionate teacher or speaker on these subjects. Travel is likely to appeal to you but you always want to go in style. You are not content to sit in the background and humbly enjoy new surroundings. You throw yourself right into the spotlight, traveling with luxurious accommodations.

You are also likely to win the hearts of people all around the world because you are charismatic, bold and colorful and easily make yourself at home even when you are in uncharted territory. Not only do you become comfortable while traveling and in new surroundings, you have a way of staking out your territory and feel restless if anyone tries to confine or limit you.

You may strive to establish yourself as an expert in areas of study including law, sciences, religion or philosophy.

Introduction to the tenth house

The Tenth House indicates your ideal career path and the strengths that fuel your public image and reputation.

Your potential for recognition as a public figure or your status gained through your career path are also indicated here. This house is ruled by the sign Capricorn and therefore deals with business and finances and the reputation you build professionally.

The cusp of the Tenth House is called the Midheaven. This is the highest point in the chart and shows where you have greatest visibility (usually career but also potential for fame). Tenth House in Aries suggests leadership and accolades through military, athletic or response work.

Tenth House in Scorpio implies possible career success as an investigator, surgeon, occultist or psychiatrist. If your Tenth House is in Gemini you may develop a reputation as a teacher or writer.

The Tenth House in Virgo suggests a career in human services, as a veterinarian or in a field requiring data analysis.
How do I pursue my career and what is my public image like?

Your tenth house in Virgo places emphasis on your practical approach to career and the understated nature of your public life. You are committed to being of service and while you are capable and grounded, you actually avoid the spotlight. You don’t want your career to be about your personality or insecurities. You have a knack for separating yourself from your mission.

You can remain emotionally detached from your career and you know that your goals are all about the greater good of society. You want to be of service to others. You can excel in careers related to service, health, wellness, and any career requiring organizational skills and attention to detail. You don’t mind doing the dirty work that others find too mundane.

Your greatest career skills involve analysis and intellect. You become like a machine when it comes to your career. Any intellectual roles that require analysis, research, data entry or problem solving would appeal to you. You don’t mind repetition and consistency as long as you can use your mind and engage your intellect in your career.

You can be conservative in your attitude toward career and you avoid controversy in your public life and choice of career.
You prefer not to jump from job to job preferring steady and consistent progress on your career path. You don’t like change and may stick with a career path because it is secure and stable or because change and disruption makes you anxious.

You take your work seriously and are no stranger to responsibility. You approach your career and public life with humility. You may prefer to work independently and love to be of assistance to others. You don’t need attention or much instruction and are knowledgeable about many subjects of practical value.

Introduction to the eleventh house

The Eleventh House is ruled by Aquarius and therefore it is describes your connection to groups, grassroots movements, social consciousness and also your potential to be eccentric, individualistic and innovative even in association with group efforts.

The Eleventh House in Taurus indicates suggests connection to movements related to financially supporting the underprivileged or helping those in need of food, medical care and physical comforts find access to resources.

With Eleventh House in Pisces on the other hand you may be drawn to spiritual movements, cults and gurus and you may easily lose yourself in the crowd. The Eleventh House in Sagittarius makes you an innovator in the sciences, spirituality or philosophy and you seek enlightened movements.

Eleventh House in Capricorn suggests a ‘less is more’ approach to socializing but emphasizes affiliations like business associations or trade unions. Eleventh House in Gemini shows attraction to an eclectic social network and the need for flexibility.
What is my approach to friendships and social progress?

Your eleventh house in Libra gives emphasis to your approach to large groups and organizations. You thrive in group situations as you are outgoing and love to share ideas with others. You also love eclectic, diverse groups of people and may have friends from all different cultures and backgrounds.

One of the unifying bonds among you and your network is your shared love of justice and desire to create harmony in society. You prefer not to take a confrontational or aggressive approach but may become an activist using your creativity and gifts of communication to break down barriers and reach different people.

Generally, you enjoy harmony and peace but you are prone to occasional surprise outbursts. Even your social connections may be marked by some disruptions. You may have rocky friendships which you try your best to maintain.

You may also find a lover or partner from among your group of friends. Your shared vision and mission is a solidifying force in the relationship though you may experience tumult and periods of abrupt separation or emotional distance.

You love to bring out the beauty in those around you and may literally take measures to uplift others and contribute to improving their appearance such as volunteering with an organization that provides haircuts for the homeless or makeovers for people suffering from illnesses.

You can be an idealist and you strive to bring equality to your social relationships. You may be conscious of giving your attention in equal measure to all of the people you know and care about and it is always easy for you to assert yourself in friendships and relationships because you love to make others happy before thinking of your own needs.

You may also become passive and indecisive in group settings as you try so hard not to upset or offend anyone and can lose your own sense of direction and independence. If you aren’t careful you may be prone to groupthink or being influenced by the collective to adopt practices or beliefs that aren’t authentic to who you are.

If you can maintain a healthy sense of boundaries and individual identity you can accomplish your dreams with the support and help of groups and organizations.

Introduction to the twelfth house

The Twelfth House can be difficult to understand at first. It has been called the “House of Self Undoing” to contrast with the First House of self and ego.

It is also associated with incarceration, hospitalizations, feeling trapped, institutions and also the process of being liberated from institutions. It is a house in which you find yourself by losing your ego.

It can therefore also be associated with spirituality, epiphanies and mental breakdowns as well as delusions and addictions or drug use. This is also the house of compassion, healing and transformation, self-sacrifice and martyrdom, creativity and artistic tendencies.

What do all these things have in common? Pisces, the Twelfth House’s ruling sign. This is the house of transcendence but also embodies the issues you have to transcend and the lessons involved in that process.

Twelfth House in Taurus challenges you to let go of materialism in order to find deeper value, but may indicate shopping, eating or relationship addictions that help elicit these lessons.
What are my life challenges and how do I find healing and spiritual connection?

Your twelfth house in Scorpio gives emphasis to your self created prison and the need to heal patterns of addiction and self sabotage. You have much work to do to release power struggles and heal issues with control. Your desire to remain invulnerable while maintaining an upper hand over others repeatedly creates problems in your life.

Until you recognize the lengths you have been going to in order to avoid dealing with your emotions and accepting your own vulnerability you may continue to become enmeshed in addictive, controlling and possessive relationships with others. You may also try to assert an image of domination and power.

In spite of your efforts to convey an air of authority, your attempts will fall short because you are actually using manipulation and control over others, wealth or false illusions of status to prop yourself up.

When you have taken the time to consciously work on healing these patterns, you will be able to tap into your true sources of power.

You will discover that your hidden power includes, among other things, your deep sense of empathy, keen perception, perseverance, insight and ability to facilitate healing and transformation for yourself and others.

Your own healing process may involve recovery from addictions. You are also likely to have old traumas from this life or prior lifetimes, which continue to influence you and sabotage your success. When you take measures to address and heal from your addictions and traumas however, you will be in a position to effectively empower others.

You can be focused, determined and willful and these strengths can work to your advantage, helping you to overcome adversity for example. They may also stand in your way, however, especially when surrendering to a higher order in the universe is necessary.

Introduction to the planets in the houses

A Birth Chart is comprised of all the fundamental ingredients needed to understand your path and personality from an astrological perspective. The signs and planets are placed in position on the chart, which is divided into twelve sections called Houses.

When a house has no planets in it, it still has meaning. Yet when planets are in a house, they bring further depth to how you will experience the life area or traits associated with the house and sign therein.

If you have the Moon, Mercury and Venus in your First House in Taurus, the Taurus energy is amplified by the presence of Venus, who rules this sign.

Venus in the First House makes you attractive and compassionate while the Moon adds nurturing energy and desire for security. Mercury in the First House brings the potential to be outgoing and talkative.

Planets in the Houses may bring energies that aren’t typically associated with the sign or ruling sign of that house, but it is like a visitor bringing their suitcase filled with artifacts from their homeland.
Where are my will and ego directed?

Natal Sun in the eleventh house gives emphasis to your social connections and your role in the larger society. You may identify as a progressive change maker, advocating as part of numerous social movements.

You are likely to be well liked by many people and enjoy the company of numerous friends and associates, yet you are likely to shy away from intimate relationships. You prefer instead to be where the action is. You love being on the cutting edge of change and being a catalyst for revolutionary movements.

You are highly intelligent and drawn to groups and networking. You thrive in social settings that stimulate your mind. You enjoy challenging others’ ideas and can be rebellious.

When this energy is out of balance you may become engrossed in conflicts for the sake of stirring the pot with little focus on any specific agenda. You may also grow frustrated with individual relationships and keep others at arms’ length.

This answer is related to your Sun in the 11th house.
How do I express my nurturing, emotional nature?

You feel intuitively connected to spiritual pursuits and mysticism. Your Natal Moon in the ninth house brings an instinctual desire to explore higher realms. You seek spiritual wisdom and may be highly intuitive and psychic. You are also drawn to experience new cultures and religions.

You may periodically awaken to new cultural and religious identities throughout your life. Your mood may influence your desire to travel and break free from tradition and restriction.

Though you love family and home you are also a wanderer and may move or travel a lot with your family. You may also at some point live a nomadic lifestyle.

Your empathy and intuition also give you great compassion for issues of justice and humanitarian causes. You may study law or philosophy in hopes of helping to create a more nurturing world.

Social justice causes involving families, women and children’s rights also appeal to you.

This answer is related to your Moon in the 9th house.
What influences my mindset and communication?

Your style of communication can be passive aggressive or just plain passive with Natal Mercury in your twelfth house.

You are highly intuitive and may value the symbolic language of art, music and the psychic realms more than you value literal forms of communication.

You may refuse to speak early in life, leading others to wonder if you have a problem with hearing or a speech impairment. It is more likely that you are absorbing your surroundings with high levels of perception and awareness but are not communicating in traditional ways.

You may be brilliant and have a knack for languages, perhaps even inventing your own system of communication. The only problem is that your style of connecting is not easily understood in conventional circles.

Later in life when you meet others who are as intuitive and empathic as you are, you will come to understand and appreciate your gifts. Earlier in life however if not given the proper nurturing you may see yourself as an outsider who is not able to like or connect like others.
You are likely to be tapped into Spirit energy at a young age and communicate as easily with ‘imaginary friends’ as you do with those physically present. Your ability to communicate is emotion based and may extend to speaking to animals and nature as well as other people.

This answer is related to your Mercury in the 12th house.
How do I express my romantic side and love for others?

Natal Venus in your tenth house places emphasis on relationships that are related to advancing your career and public image.

Networking and relationships are your keys to career success. You easily rise to public recognition through your social circle and relationships.

Your diplomacy and compassion are part of your brand in business and you may succeed in a career that is related to the arts, relationships or the beauty industry. Relationship mentoring or counseling, marriage therapy or cosmetology will all appeal to you. You may also seek out work as a mediator as you love to create harmony and help others solve conflicts.

Visual arts and decorating would also be promising career paths for you. Even when you rise to positions of power in career you maintain empathy for those you work with. You are genuine and relatable and your charm helps you negotiate contracts and create abundance through your chosen work.

Your personal appeal and attractiveness can also benefit you in careers in which you are the public face of a company, brand or product. You may succeed in careers which are image oriented such as acting, dance or modeling as well.
This answer is related to your Venus in the 10th house.
How do I harness my energy, courage and confidence?

You have an intense desire to expand your mind and connect with different cultures and belief systems.

You are highly energetic and focus your energy into the study of philosophy, spirituality and sciences. You may have unexpected opportunities for long distance travel and will likely react to these opportunities quickly to make the most of the situation.

When your interests in law, healing, science and philosophy are triggered you can become obsessed with acquiring new knowledge. You may impulsively pursue certification and higher learning in a path that involves blending mental and physical power. Martial arts for example would appeal to you.

Your humanitarian side shows in your desire to protect people who appear to be forgotten or oppressed. You may become zealous or vigilant in your activism if you aren’t mindful of remaining balanced.

Spirituality can be a useful tool for you to balance out your intense and reactive energy but you may have to develop practices that cultivate this balance.

This answer is related to your Mars in the 9th house.
How do I channel my optimism and expansive energy for success?

Natal Jupiter in the second house gives emphasis to financial success. You are lucky when it comes to money and may acquire wealth easily. You are also likely to be successful when it comes to finding the resources you need in order to follow your ideals.

Whether you have an excess of abundance or just enough abundance to fulfill your modest dreams, you will always have what you need in order to rise to the next level of growth on your path.

You are also likely to share the abundance and success you attain and this only further fuels your success and others’ positive opinions of you.

This answer is related to your Jupiter in the 2nd house.
How do I practice restraint or face limitations?

Natal Saturn in your fourth house gives you the ability to exercise self discipline in matters of home and family.

You may run your household by traditional rules or adopt a lifestyle of voluntary simplicity or frugality when it comes to your home life. You are likely to have a small family or connect to elders in your family who influence your world view and values.

Limitations may cause you to change residences and have to adapt to a new lifestyle. You may also experience limitations in your family relationships that create hardship and struggle. Ultimately these conflicts bring important Karmic lessons.

You are likely to have a minimalist’s view when it comes to your household. If you collect anything it is likely to be antiques or relics of your family’s heritage. You work hard and are driven and ambitious.

Part of your motivation is to provide security for your family. You may feel at home in the office or work from your home. Real estate or other similar careers can help you derive income from work related to home and property.

This answer is related to your Saturn in the 4th house.
How do I express my unique, rebellious side?

Natal Uranus in your second house gives you a rebellious view when it comes to finances. You are a progressive thinker who sees money for what it is, a means to an end.

You are detached from the emotional security some may seek from money and would rather help overthrow the capitalist system than hoard wealth for yourself.

Your intuition and intelligence work together to keep you ahead of the curve. You may have invested early in tech, Bitcoin or other unorthodox means of currency. At the same time you may also become an excellent “angel investor” because you can sense what up and coming businesses will thrive. Your interests in investing are only partially based on financial gain. You genuinely want to see businesses you believe in thrive.

Terms like “socially responsible investing” or “eco-business” are redundant to you. You can’t see any reason someone would invest in something that wasn’t socially responsible. You are good at putting your money where your conscience is and may help inspire others to do the same.

Lucky breaks and erratic windfalls can add to your financial bottom line though you are as likely to reinvest money in whatever the next up and coming trend is than you are to hold on to it for a rainy day.
This answer is related to your Uranus in the 2nd house.
How do I express my creative, mystical, compassionate side?

You are intuitively led to pursuing security and abundance. You take a nontraditional approach to finances often going on gut feeling and emotion rather than logic and analysis. This is because of Natal Neptune placement in your second house.

You value empathy, creativity and imagination and will invest in ways that reflect this. You aren’t interested in status or materialism. You value art and music and may invest your money and time on supporting your favorite artists and creative people. You are also likely to follow your own heart when it comes to developing your creative and artistic talents and may invest in tools of the trade to promote your growth as a musician or artist.

You also channel your money into further delving into your spiritual path. You prefer to align your investments and resources with things that engage your imagination and activate your interest in other realms and metaphysics. You may have a sizable collection of crystals and oracle cards for example.

You may feel more secure when retreating into your inner world than dealing with practical matters in the mundane world.

This answer is related to your Neptune in the 2nd house.
Where am I most powerful a catalyst for deep transformation?

Natal Pluto in your twelfth house provides opportunity for transformation and rebirth through experiencing physical, emotional or spiritual healing.

You are likely to experience restrictions and obstacles which help you awaken to your higher calling and true power.

If you are misusing your personal power and ambition consequences will ensue. Your insatiable appetite for control and wealth can steer you off course, leading you to bend or break rules.

When this happens, institutions such as jails, hospitals and rehabilitation centers may play a role in helping you start over, experiencing spiritual awakening and initiating a new path after experiencing consequences related to unchecked desire for power.

This answer is related to your Pluto in the 12th house.
How do I need to evolve in order to reach my purpose in this lifetime?

Your natal North Node in the tenth house places emphasis on developing your career and public image. You will initially prefer nurturing your home and family life as this is where you feel at your best.

It is a stretch outside of your comfort zone to step up to the plate and embrace your true calling.

Your path to fulfilling your destiny involves accepting a more public life than you would normally prefer.

You may be in the spotlight as a leader, celebrity or politician. You will have to learn to accept responsibility for your role in career as you will be in a position of power.

You aren’t initially comfortable with the scrutiny or obligations that accompany your career path but on some level you know you are following your calling.

This answer is related to your True Lunar Node in the 10th house.
What area of my life or personality needs the most healing?

Chiron in your eleventh house places emphasis on your core wounds related to feeling of connection to the group and to humanitarian organizations.

You may have felt a deep disconnection from the dominant society or feel intense social anxiety that makes it difficult for you to feel like you’re part of the crowd.

As a result you are sensitive to wounds of others who are socially outcast. You are also given opportunities to heal your own wounds through your connection to organizations or groups that focus on social change.

By trusting your instincts, no matter how unique or eccentric, you are able to emerge as a healer and guide for others and also help to heal your own wounds.

This answer is related to your Chiron in the 11th house.
In what life area do I show my rebellious side?

You have an intense desire for pleasure and freedom thanks to Lilith in the Ninth House. Your appetite for sexual exploration is insatiable.

You need to make sure your ideological beliefs are respected at all times. If you feel you are being ostracized or stifled in any way because of your beliefs or ideals you can become vicious as you push back against anyone trying to infringe on your independence.

While you won’t be preached to by others, you may become zealous and insist on imposing your views on others. You may also have to contend with sorting through toxic or misinformed elements in your ideological and spiritual beliefs as you come to understand your higher wisdom and separate this from your instincts and unhealed anger.

This answer is related to your Lilith in the 9th house.
What part of my life needs the most nurturing?

You need to nurture your confidence in yourself so that you can be more assertive.

You may have doubts or insecurities about your appearance. You may need extra nurturing and encouragement to come into full appreciation of your beauty and strengths as an individual.

You are also likely to seek admiration and reassurance from others when it comes to your very sense of self and self-image. You may embody the very traits you wish others would show toward you.

For example, your desire for nurturing may lead you to openly and generously show love and generosity with others. You may have a long line of loved ones you’ve ‘adopted’ as if they were your own family or children.

You easily step up to the plate to act as caretaker for others and may try to channel your desire for nurturing in your proactive caretaking of others. Nurturing is deeply interconnected with your personality.

This answer is related to your Ceres in the 1st house.
What area of my life do I focus my Warrior energy for justice and change?

Your strategic yet fierce warrior energy is easily expressed openly.

You have no problem expressing your opinion and asserting the need for justice or changes. You may be particularly sensitive to the desire for freedom of speech and personal expression.

You’ll speak out against any injustices that impact your ability to be true to yourself and your unique style. From body image acceptance to any form of full acceptance of identity, you will be motivated to advocate for individual rights and freedoms.

You have a love of personal freedom and authenticity. You use your confidence and security within yourself to be an advocate for others to have similar freedom and acceptance.

You won’t let anyone else define you. Instead you try to embody your ideals and sense of right and wrong. You definitely walk your talk and follow your instincts and moral compass.

This answer is related to your Pallas in the 1st house.
In what situations do I most easily show my loyalty and commitment?

You are deeply devoted and sensitive to the needs of your partner.

You express your commitment and stability in a marriage or long term relationship by treating your partner like family. You can be nurturing, empathic and intuitively connected to your partner.

Your biggest dream in a long term relationship is to be committed, devoted and stable. You try to set up a feeling of home and security for your partner and you act as if you are married early on in the relationship.

Your sensitive feelings can be hurt if your jealousies are provoked. You try to provide a home base for your partner and when you don’t feel validated in a relationship it may feel as if you no longer feel at home. This feeling of home, family and security is very important and central to your long term relationships.

This answer is related to your Juno in the 4th house.
In what area of life do I produce my best work in service of Spiritual purification?

You are committed to self-mastery. This can include devotion to physical strength and courage on behalf of those in need.

You may channel your spiritual energy and focus to create purification through refining your image and physical appearance. You can come to equate physical appearance with perfection and purity. You may strive to always maintain an optimal appearance.

You may sacrifice a lot in order to embody your ideals. Your sense of purity is worn on your sleeve. You may have an acetic sense of fashion and opt for functionality in your wardrobe rather than flashiness.

You will do your best work in favor of using your own views and experiences to embody leadership and ideals for the benefit of others. You may be decisive and sure of yourself and you carry yourself with certainty that others find reassuring.

You may become the poster child for purity and idealism, and your outward rituals will help convey your higher ideals and desires to be of service.

This answer is related to your Vesta in the 1st house.
What areas of my life can be the source of chaotic change and large impact?

Your search for truth and wisdom leads you to try to establish security and a solid foundation.

You want to be in a career that provides purpose and allows you to do something meaningful. Your ideas and hard working nature lead to explosive transformation.

You can unleash a dramatic and powerful transformation when you work toward success in achieving your goals. You may become intoxicated by your desire for wealth and success. This can lead you to get so engrossed in the tediousness of work and career that you start to forget your purpose.

Dramatic and chaotic situations can be wake up calls, pulling you away from the distractions and back to your true mission.

You may feel extra protective but find there is a major catastrophe from which you can’t protect others. Learning to let go of control and putting your energy into what you can manage and ways you can be productive is part of your mission when a breakthrough is warranted.

This answer is related to your Pholus in the 10th house.
What area of my life do I express my sexual desire and obsession?

You may feel like you become infatuated with everyone you meet.

Love at first sight seems very real to you, though often it is lust. Your instincts and impulses lead you to feel aroused in relationships, often in the earliest stages of an encounter.

When it comes to exploring sexuality, you may be turned on by expressing your desires in athletic or obvious ways. You will blatantly chase your love interest.

You may also have an aggressive or controlling side when it comes to sex. You radiate passion and sexuality and may have a fun and playful side that emerges in the bedroom.

You can be turned on by competition or even confrontation and may pick fights just for the sake of arousal from the attention others show you. You may find it easy to jump into sexual relationships and are often careless when it comes to this kind of relationship.
